GRAMMAR:

A COMPENDIOUS

IN WHICH

THE PRINCIPLES OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE

ARE METHODICALLY DIGESTED

INTO PLAIN AND EASY RULES:

ILLUSTRATED BY

EXERCISES OF TRUE AND FALSE SYNTAX.

WITH

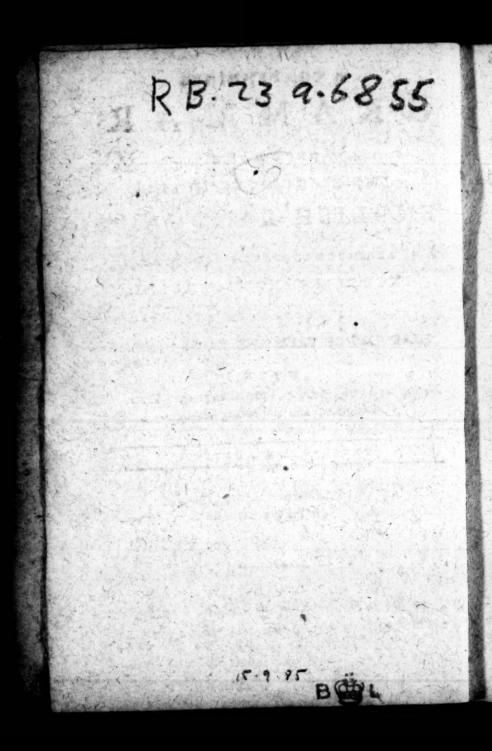

Notes, and Observations, explaining the Terms of Grammar, and improving its Use.

THE FOURTH EDITION.

These Rules of old discover'd, not devis'd Are nature still, but nature methodiz'd. POPE.

GLASGOW,

PRINTED BY J. AND M. ROBERTSON, MDCCXCV.

A CONCISE

HISTORICAL ACCOUNT

OFTHE

ENGLISH LANGUAGE.

THE power of giving found to thought, a voice to the filent language of the heart, and of expreffing all that the mind can conceive, by combinations of intelligible tones addreffed to the ear, is one of the most amazing, and, at the fame time, one of the greatest privileges of our nature ; and, closely connected with this, as the most valuable of all human discoveries, is the art of imprefling thefe thoughts on the eye, in legible characters. By the former we are rendered capable of focial intercourfe, of receiving and conveying ideas, of enjoying the endearments of friendthip, and the communications of wildom : by the latter we converse where the ear is far out of the reach of found, and transmit our thoughts to the remoteft parts of the earth : we treasure up what might otherwise escape our memories, become acquainted with the actions of

of former ages and diftant countries, with all the learning of the ancients, and the improvements of the moderns; and can read the laws which the great Creator of the Universe has given for the government of our paffions, and the regulation of our conduct. Without the firft, we would have been folitary, in the midft of crowds, excluded from every kind of knowledge, except what fell under our immediate notice ; and confined to the dull and tedious efforts of intimating our defires by figns and geftures : Without the laft, we might indeed enjoy the benefit of conversation, but then we would be held in ignorance, and perplexed in error; we would obtain but a very imperfect knowledge of the prefent time, and could receive no information with regard to the paft, but from partial accounts handed down by tradition. In fhort, without the first, we could scarcely be accounted rational; and, but for the laft, we would have been as ignorant as the wild illiterate Indians.

It has been obferved, that language is to the mind, what painting and feulpture are to the fight; however, the difference, in favour of the former, is extremely great: The most finished pieces of imagery are, at best, but dull and unaffecting, when compared with the energy of words. By such masterly productions of art, we have, indeed, the object presented before us, but language can place it in all varieties of view, under every combination of circumftances.

The

The idea of a univerfal language, could it poffibly be obtained, would feem to imply fomething highly beneficial to the human race; but unerring Wifdom, either for our advantage or punifhment, has determined against it, and appointed to every nation a particular tongue, and to each diffrict its peculiar dialect.

5

, t

t

f

1

8

t

-

e

2

e 1

f

C

t

.

e

Having faid this much of language, in general, we shall now give a fuccinct account of our own; point out the various changes it has undergone, and the means by which it has arrived at its prefent perfection.

As we have many reasons to conclude that. this country was originally peopled by the ancient Gauls, from the adjacent coaft of France, we may thence infer, that the British language, eighteen hundred years ago, was the fame with that dialect of the Gaulish called the Celtic. But, about half a century before the Christian æra, Julius Cæfar invaded Britain, and, in the reign of Claudius, a Roman colony was planted in the fouth-east parts of England; and finally, under Domitian, the whole nation became a Roman province; when those Britons, who refuled to fubmit to the foreign yoke, retired into Wales, in hopes of retaining their liberty,and carried their language along with them. From this period, the Latin tongue was gradually introduced, and, in all parts of the land, mixed with the British, which those first conquerors were never able wholly to supprefs.

At

At length the Roman legions were called home ; and then the Scots and Picts, making an irruption into the northern parts of England, king Vortigern, about the year 400, invited the Saxons to his affiftance. These allies came over with feveral of their neighbours under the conduct of Hengift and Horfa. They, having fubdued the Scots and Picts, had the Isle of Thanet affigned them at first, as a reward for their fervices, and afterwards the whole county of Kent, which they governed about 350 years; till, growing powerful and diffatisfied with their narrow limits, they at length took pofferfion of all the country fouth of the Welch mountains, and divided it among themfelves, into feven kingdoms, called the Saxon Heptarchy. Thus the British tongue, before mixed with the Latin, was almost abolished, and many of the Britons obliged again to take refuge in Wales and Cornwall, while the usurpers laid the foundation of new laws, and a new language.

England continued in this fituation till about the year 800, when it was invaded by the Danes, who, after being feveral times repulfed, eftablifhed themfelves in the northern and eaftern parts, where, their power increasing, they at length, after a conteft of 200 years, made themfelves the fole mafters of England. After this, the language became tinctured with the Danifh; but, as their government was not of kng duration, it did not make fo great an alteration. ation in the Anglo-Saxon, as the next revolution, when the whole kingdom was again fubdued by William Duke of Normandy, afterwards called William the Conqueror. He caufed all public edicts, and other judicial matters, to be written and performed in the French language. In this manner the Normans, as a monument of their conqueft, endeavoured to make their language as univerfal as poffible, but their number, being comparatively fmall, their language was never properly eftablished.

Thus the English tongue, which was anciently pure British or Welch, became a mixture of a little British, a great deal of Latin, a yet far greater part of Anglo-Saxon, fome Danifh, and abundance of Norman-French; but, fince that time, the revival of arts and fciences has added greatly to its embellichment. These have introduced a great variety of words from the Greek, Latin, Italian, and modern French ; our poets have added grace and harmony to their numbers, and our profe writers have ftrengthened and improved their periods, by felecting the most mufical; strong, and expressive terms from every known language, as appears by the following flate, faid to be collected from Dr. Johnfon's Dictionary : In which there are about 40,000 words, whereof only 15,784 are derivatives, feveral of which are nearly the fame in various languages, and many more are formed by analogy.

Words

Words faid to be	derived from the Latin 6732	Irifh 6
	Runie 4
Saxon 1665	Flemish 4
	Earle 4
Dutch	Syriac 3
Italian 211	Scottifh 3
German 106	Irifh and Earfe . 2
Welch 95	Turkish 2
Danifh 75	Irifh and Scottifh I
	Portuguele I
Iflandic 50	Perfian 1
Swedifh 34	Frific ' 1
Gothic 31	Perfic I
Hebrew 16	Uncertain I
Teutonic 15	and the state of the second
Arabie 13	Total 15,784
The second s	Standard 1998 Later and a standard with a standard the

ŀ

1

1

1

A

Notwithstanding its being a compound of fuch heterogeneous ingredients, it is now become the most copious and fignificant language in Europe, adapted to all fubjects, and expressive of every fentiment with elegance and propriety.

Hail Energeia! bail my native tongue, Concifely full, and mufically firong ! Thou, with the pencil, boldft a glorious firife, And paint'ft the passions equal to the life.

N. B. The Compiler of this Treatife, confiders it as his duty to acknowledge, that he has adopted from others, whatever he found confiftent with his plan.

(8)

GRAMMAR

OF THE

ENGLISH LANGUAGE.*

TATHAT is Grammar? †

VV The art of fpeaking or writing correct-

1. ORTHOGRAPHY ; ‡ or, true fpelling.

2. PROSODY ; § or, true pronunciation ; comprehending Accent, Quantity and Emphafis.

3. ETYMOLOGY ; ¶ comprehending the different kinds of words, and their derivation.

4. SYNTAX; + or, the confiruction of words in a fentence.

OF

* Communicating the thoughts, purposes, or perceptions of one person to another, by articulate founds, or by letters used for representing them, is called Speech, or Language; making these communications according to rule is called GRAMMAR.

+ From the Greek word GRAMMA a letter.

I From the Gr. ORTHOS right, and GRAPHE writing.

From the Gr. PROS to, and ODE a Song.

T From the Gr. ETYMOS true, and Logos fpeech.

+ From the Gr. Syn together, and TAXIS ordering or tanking.

OF LETTERS. *

What is a Letter ?

10

A mark, or character, reprefenting a fimple, articulate found.

How many Letters are in the English Alphabet? † Twenty-fix: a b c d e f g h i j k l m n o p q r f s t u v w x y z, which are divided into Vowels ‡ and Confonants. §

Which are the Vowels ?

A, e, i, o, u, alfo y and w (in fome applications of them) are called Vowels, becaufe they mark a diffinct found without the help of any other letter.

Which are the Confonants ?

B c d f g h j k 1 m n p q r f s t v w x y z are called Confonants, becaufe they do not mark a diffinct found, but only ferve to modify the articulation of the Vowels.

How many kinds of Characters are used in the English Language?

Three: 1. The Roman; most generally used.

2. The Italic ; lefs frequently ufed.

3. The GID English; feldom uled.

SOUNDS

$

by bl

tv

fo fe

th fp a la

th is 18

3

* From the Latin word Litera, a Letter. Letters, being the foundation of Language, those rules which industry and observation have formed with regard to their powers and properties, should be carefully attended to.

+ From the first two Greek Letters ALPHA BETA.

‡ From the Latin word Vecalis, having found.

From the Latin word Confonans, founding with.

SOUNDS * OF THE VOWELS EXEMPLIFIED.

a	lā-	late	găt	mâlt
e	hē	hēre	hĕr	thêre
	All the second second	fine	fĭn	field
0	nō	nöte	nŏt	prôve
u	dū-	dūke	dŭck	, ball
y	mÿ	tÿre	fýntý	学家中国人

,

tp

-

y

y

e

a

e

be

1.

S

rs, ch

eir

 $\bar{z} \bar{e} \bar{i} \bar{o} \bar{u} \bar{y}$ are long by pofition, when last in a fyllable, or lengthened by final e. \pm

ă ĕ ĭ ŏ ŭ ÿ are fhort by pofition, when followed by one or more confonants in the fame fyllable : ÿ is fhort in the end of unaccented fyllables.

a founds a before ll, ld, lk, lm, lt, and between w and r; as all, fcald, talk, alms, malt, war.

e founds ê, or ā; as, there, were, where, ere. i founds î, or ē; as, capuchine, machine.

o founds ô, or û; as, do, to, who, move, prove. u founds û, or ô; as, bufb, full, pull, true, truth.

There are feveral fmaller peculiarities in the founds of the vowels, about which Grammarians feem not to be fully agreed.

OF

* What is called the Sound or Power of letters, is the direction which they give for placing the organs of speech in certain positions; and, for emitting breath in a certain manner.---The founds of the letters, in one language, are often explained by comparing them with the like founds in another language; which, in general, is only illustrating an unknown thing, by another which is more unknown.

+ Final e generally lengthens the found of the foregoing vowel; but, to this there are feveral exceptions.

11

OF DIPHTHONGS.

What is a Diphthong, or double Vorwel? The meeting of two Vowels in one fyllable. How many kinds of Diphthongs are there? Two: proper and improper. † What is a proper Diphthong?

A transition from one found to another, during the fame impulse of breath; or, two vowels united, expressing a found different from that of any fingle vowel; as, voice, found.

What is an improper Diphthong ?

Two Vowels united, emitting only one found ; as, faint, grief, reprieve.

The English Diphthongs, proper and improper, are mostly exhibited in the following

TABLE

a

a

a

e

Ct

ei

co

eu

CV

rad

* From dis twice, and pbthongos found.

+ Grammarians have named the first vowel of a diphthong the prepositive, and the fecond the fubjunctive. When both are founded equally, or nearly fo, the diphthong is faid to be proper: When either the one or the other is not founded, the diphthong is faid to be improper...-Or, when two vowels, coming together in a fyllable, mark a found which cannot be expressed by any fingle vowel, they form a proper diphthong; but, when they mark a found which can be expressed by a fingle vowel, they form an improper diphthong.

TABLE.

ai f. ā; as, air, chair, ail, hail, nail, faint. I; as, certain, curtain, mountain, -ous. au f. a; as, caught, taught, caufe, gauze. fborter in jaunt, flaunt.- a in guage. aw f. a; as, awe, law, claw, paw, awl, bawl. ay f. ā; as, hay, bray, clay, day, fay.- ây. ca f ā; as, bear, great, pear, fwear, tear, near. ē; as, beach, bead, beam, lean, read, heat. ě; as, dead, head, read, fpread, ftead, tread. ŭ; as, dearth, earth, earl, learn, heard. are sometimes divided ; as, cre-ate, ide-a, pre-amble, flore-age, blame-able. ce f. ē; as, bee, bleed, been, feel, keen, feen. are sometimes divided ; as, re-enter. ei f. ā; as, deign, feign, reign, rein, veil, vein. ē; as, deceive, perceive, receive, feizer ī; as, height, fleight, flreight, freight. are sometimes divided ; as, de-ity, deilm, re-inforce, re-imburfe, re-inftate. co f. e; as, people, yeoman, yeomanry. ě; as, feoff, jeopardy, Leonard. ŏ; as, georgics, pigeon, furgeon, flurgcon. are divided ; as, the orem, the ory. eu f. ū; as, Europe, feud, grandeur, neuter. are divided ; as, re-unite, Time-us. ew f. ū; as, dew, few, new, news, pew, jewel. ey any hen Note. Confonants, not founded, are printed in a changle racter different from the reft of the word, as caught

r-

la

of

ł;

-01

E

ph-

ive. ph-

the profyl-

14

ey f. ā; as, hey, eyre, grey, obcy, whey, they. ē; in key, forter in honey, journey -- eye. ie f. c; as, brief, chief, grief, thief, reprieve. ë; as, friend, friendly, friendship, -lefs. ī; as, die, fie, lie, complies .- fieve. are sometimes divided ; as, cli-ent, di-et, pi ety, foci-ety, propri-ety, fobri-ety. io f. u; as, motion, nation, portion, explosion. are fometimes divided ; as, vi-ol, vi-olent. oa f á; as, broad, abroad, groat, groats. ō; as, boat, float, oak, oar, oath, foar. are divided ; as, co-adjutor, Go-a. oe f. o; as, doe, foe, roe, floe, to .- fhoe. are fometimes divided; dô-er, 28. wôo-er, Do-eg, go-eft, po-et. oi f. ŏi; as, oil, boil, broil, coin, foil, join, loins. are fometimes divided ; as, co-incide, co-incident, "dô-ing, go-ing, hero-ifm. oo f. o; as, door, floor, Moor (an African). ô; as, bloom, doom, groom, poor, food. ŭ; as, blood, -y, -fhed, -lefs, flood, -ed. are sometimes divided ; as, co-ordinate, co-operate, co-operator, co-optation. ou f. 2; as, bought, fought, nought, fought. ou; as, bough, found, gout, hour, thou, our. o; as, dough, though, four, courfe, foul. ŏ; as, clough, cough, hough, trough. ô; as, group, gourd, gout, foup, through. ū; as, you, your, youth, youthful. ŭ; cs, enough, rough, fcourge, touch,

and

t

e

1

8

t

a

e

1

y.

t,

. n.

it.

er,

15.

le,

n.

d.

1.

ie,

Ir.

ь.

h,

nd

and in the terminations, -ous ; 28, hideous, bounte-ous, dute-ous, pi-ous.

ow f. ō; as, blow, bow, flow, grow, grown, fown. ŏû; as, now, prow, howl, owl, down, gown. ŏ; as, fellow, -fhip, follow, -er, -ing, -ed. oy f. ŏi; as, boy, coy, foy, joy, decoy, employ. ua f. ā; as, guard, -ed, -ing, guardian, -fhip. ue f. ū; as, blue, clue, glue, due, hue, rue, fue. are fometimes filent; as, plāgue, vāgue, rōgue, vōgue, fynagogue, difembogue. are fometimes divided; as, du-el, fu-el.

ui f. ĭī; as, guide, guile, guileful,-buy.

ĭ; as, build, built, guild, guilt, -y; -lefs.

ū; as, bruife, cruife, fruit, juice, fluice. are fomctimes divided; as, ru-in, an-nu-

ity, gratu-ity, fuperflu-ity, congru-ity.

TRIPLE VOWELS.

eau f. o; as, beau, beaux, bureau, &c.

ū; as, beauty, beauteous, beautiful.

ieu f. ū; as, lieu, adieu, (view.)

2

OF

Note 1. In these vocal combinations, which are the greatest difficulty of English Orthography, we find only two proper diphthongs, viz. OI and OU; the rest being a substitution of several vowels emitting only one found.

2. AE and OE, commonly marked Æ, æ, OE, æ, found e; they are not English diphthongs, though they occur fometimes in words introduced from the Greek or Latin; as Cæfar, Phænix, &c. generally written Cefar, Phenix, &c.

3. The combinations of U preceded by \mathcal{Q} , and followed by one or more vowels, are not inferted in the foregoing table of double and triple vowels.

OF THE CONSONANTS.

16

B has one unvaried found; it is placed before all the vowels, and before the conforants l and r: —before t, and in the end of words, it is filent; as, debt, doubt, lamb, limb : it fometimes lengthens the preceding vowels; as, climb, Womb.

- C is founded like k before a, o, u, l and r; as, cap, coff, cut, cloy, cry, concord, cucumber.
- —like f before e, i, y, and an apoflrophe; as, centre, cinder, cypher, plac'd, is often filent before i; as, india, perfea, viauals, viaualler. D is placed before all the vowels, and before the
- confonants r and w; as, draw, dwell.
- F is changed into v, in many plurals; as, knife, knives; flaff, flaves; life, lives; wife, wives.
- G founds ig before a, o, u, l and r; as, gambol, goblin, guileful, gloomy, grotto, gargle, gangrene. —j before e, i, y, and an apostrophe; as, gem, gin, gypfy, rag'd; but this rule has many exceptions.—G lengthens the preceding vowel, and is filent before n; as, fign, condign, gnäsh, gnät, gn?w. It is often, very injudiciously, dropped in the termination ing; as, hearing, speaking, working, smelling, whereby they are liable to be mistaken for herein, speak in, work in, smell in.
- H is a note of afpiration; as, bate, bat, hofe, burt ;--- is filent as honeft, rhetoric, Meffiah.
- J f. like foft g; as, judge, rejoice, enjoy, jejune. It never ends an English word.

Kſ.

K f. like c hard,—is often omitted after c in the end of words, as public, logic, music ;—is filent before n, as, knack, know, knuckle, knuckleş.
L is doubled in the end of words of one fyllable; as, fall, fill, full; but, in words of more fyllables than one, and after a double vowel, one l is dropped, as, fulfil, befel, foul, fail, foil, wool;—l is founded laft in the fyllables -ble, -cle, -dle, fle, -ple, -tle; as, rabble, ancle, fiddle, fcuffle, apple, battle, mettle, brittle, bottle.

II

• •

t;

h-

.

s,

18, nt

r,

he

fe, es.

ol,

ne.

m,

X-

el,

ſh,

y,

ig,

ire

in,

fe,

ne.

ſ.

M has one invariable found; as, man, more, must. N has one invariable found; as, not, none, — is filent in the end of words after m; as, autumn, condemn, contemn, bymn, folemn.

P has nearly the found of b;—is filent before s; as, p/alm, p/altery,—and between m and t; as, tempt, exempt, contempt, contemptible.

Q f. like k, it is always followed by u; as, quail, quench, quill, quote, quotient, conquer, liquor.

R l. fometimes double; as, forage, forest:---re, at the end of words found er; as, acre, lustre, metre, nitre, ochre, sepulchre, theatre.

S f. like c foft, when first in a fyllable, or before a confonant; as, morfel, fimple, fcarcely, sportsman. It has generally the found of z between two vowels; as, rose, those praise, and before y in the end of words; as, clumsy, daisy, drowsy. Long f should never be written immediately after short s, nor in the end of a word.

T, when followed by i and another vowel, founds fb; as, nation, motion, fatiate, fatiety; B 3 except except when it is preceded by f or x, and in derivatives from words ending in ty ; as, Juggeftion, commistion, mighty, mightier .- t fometimes founds s ; as, bufle, cafile, thifile, whifile, -er. V has nearly the found of f. It is always followed by e in the end of words; as, have, give, live, love, glove, grove, above, improve, remove. W is commonly reckoned a confonant in the beginning of a fyllable; as, want, went, wift, while ; but, after a, e, o, it is a vowel ; as, awl, tere, now.-W is filent before r; as, wrath, wrefile, write, wrong, wrung, wry, wrapper. X f. ks ; as, excel, express, exposition, fixty, gs ; 25, exalt, examine, exhort, exile ; - kfb; as, fluxion, influcion, tonnexion :- begins no English word. Y is commonly reckoned a confonant in the beginning of words; as, you, yesterday,-a vowel in the middle and end of words; as, bymn, thyme, my, thy,-is changed into i before the terminations -ed, -eft, -eth, -er, -ful, &c. as, carry, carried, carrieft, carrieth, duty, dutiful. Z has nearly the found of ds ; as, zeal, azure. Ch f. th, in words purely English; as, church. -/b after 1, n, t, and in words derived from the French'; as, Welch, bench, inch, fnatch, chaife. -f. k in words derived from the Greek and Latin; and most of the proper names in the Bible; as, choler, chord, chorus, chymist, scheme, Chriftian, Chaldea, Chorazin, Baruch, Malachi. -b in many proper names, in Scotland; as, Loch, Lochaber, Auchterarder, Badenoch.

Gh f.

eit

the

o ab.

wi

Da

pe as, fee

lu

be

go

he

th

fol

201

Gh f. fometimes ff; as, cough, laugh, trough, enough,—are often filent, as, though, through, high, figh, might, light,—found g hard in ghaftly, ghoft, ghoftlinefs,—th in drought.

Ph f. f; as, phantom, phial, Philosophy, Physics. Th f. hard; as, think, bath, breath, Sheath, Stealth. -foft; as, then, bathe, breathe, Sheathe, though. *

OF SYLLABLES.

What is a fyllable?

n

f-

28

r.

7-

2,

e-

A,

6,

1

53

n

d.

e-

m,

he

as,

1.

.

he

ife.

Ja-

Bi-

me,

:bi.

28,

h f.

A perfect vocal found; and it may confift of either a fingle, or a double vowel; or either of thefe preceded or followed by one or more confonants; as, a, o, to, of, but, flrength, beau-ti-ful, ab-fle-mi-ouf-ly:—but there can be no fyllable without a vowel in it.

How many kinds of fyllables are there? Two: long and fhort; as, fame, there, play, pāir, hēar ;- hăt, thăt, hěad, děad, fuburbs.

OF

10

* Note. From the preceding view of the letters, it appears, that different vowels often mark the fame found; as, are, air, bear, heir, obey, guard, nation :---heat, feel, chief, people, quay :---four, grow, beau :---beauty, huty, neuter, youthful, due, cruife, adieu, &c. and that diferent founds are often marked by the fame vowel; as, people, georgics, furgeon :---fought, found, four, cough, gourd, touch :---guide, build, bruife:---great, beam, tread, heard, &c. and, that fome letters are wholly omitted in the pronunciation; as, donbt, debt, beauty, know, vogue folemn, plaim, platry, hymn, walk, deme/fics, tempt, wrath, fchifm, John, Thomas, Rbine, &c.

OF WORDS.

What is a word?

23

One or more fyllables implying fome thought, or operation of the mind, and is either fimple or compound; primitive or derivative.

What is a fimple, or primitive word?

That which is neither derived nor compounded; which can neither be traced to its root, nor refolved into its parts; as, hand, foot, pen, ink, --man, boy, fweet, bitter, love, hate, &c.

What is a compound word?

That which is made up of two, or three fimple words; as, hand-maid, foot-man, pen-cafe, inkitand, ale-houfe-keeper, Bridge-ga.e-ftreet, &c.

What is a derivative word? *

That which comes from fome other word; as, manly, boyifh, fweetnefs, bitterly, loving, hatefulnefs, watchfulnefs, juftification, &c. a

(

e

DDe

DUS

23

S

cn

How are words divided into fyllables?

BY THE FOLLOWING RULES.

 A confonant, between two vowels, is joined to the foregoing or following vowel, according as the found requires; as, ev-i-dent, en-er-gy, mif-e-ry; -de-lu-fion, tri-bu-nal, vo-ca-tion.
 2. Confonants.

* Words are fometimes diftinguished according to the number of their fyllables; thus, a word of one fyllable is called a monofyllable, a word of two fyllables, a diffyllable---of three, a trifyllable, and all words, of more than three fyllables, are called polyfyllables.

Confonants, in the middle of a word, must be divided wherever their feparation comes nearest the true found; as, man-ner, lob-fler, lockram, watch-ful, ag-gran-dize-ment.

Two vowels, both diffinctly founded, must be divided; as, co-equal, di-al, gru-el, re-inforce. Grammatical terminations must be feparated; as, walk-eft, turn-ed, ftand-ing, wait, -er, -iug. The terminations -cial -tial, -cious -tious, -cion -fion -tion, -cheon; founded fhal, fhus, fhun, fhin, ought not to be divided, as they mark but one diffinct found.

Or, to divide a word into fyllables; Observe this General Rule.

"Put as many letters to one fyllable as make a diffine found, in pronouncing that word." OF OUANTITY AND ACCENT.

What is meant by quantity?

ht,

10 :

nd-

nor nk,

aple

nk.

Sc.

as.

ate.

ined

ding

r-gy,

ants,

o the lable

ligyl-

inoit

The proper measure of fyllables, determining hem to be long or fhort.

What is meant by accent?

A peculiar ftres of the voice, diftinguishing one fyllable of the word from the reft; as, prosperous, abundance, correspond. * Is

* Some words, fpelt alike, have both their found and caning changed by varying the accent; as, conduct, behaviour conduct, to guard incenie, perfume incénie, to provoke Some words require two or three accents; as, édificácn, exáminátion; indivifibility, incómprehénlibility, &c. Is there any difference between quantity and accent?

Yes: accent is only an elevation of the voice on a certain fyllable of a word: quantity runs through all the fyllables of a word, and even monofyllables, and determines their length, or fhortnefs.

Are there any rules for placing the accent on words?

Yes: but, being either very imperfect, or liable to many exceptions, they are omitted here; the beft Inftructor, in this particular, being a dictionary, in which the words are properly accented.

RULES OF QUANTITY.

- A long fyllable takes about double the time, in pronouncing, that a flort one does, as, hate, hat, here, her; note, not; tune, tun. *
- 2. A fyllable long by pofition, that is, having a long vowel or diphthong in it, is raifed, but not lengthened by the accent; as, fhāmeful, fēigned, rāifed, tēnder, wātchful, dūlý.
- 3. A fyllable fhort by polition, that is, having a fhort vowel or diphthong in it, is fharpened but not lengthened by the accent; as, flätter, bättle, better, mettle, healthy, wealthy.

OF

DIC

thu

er's

ha

vit

her

ol

ar

er

*

V

V

V

V

V av

H

enc

efi

Vil

* "I wo thort fyllables are invariably equal to the time of a long one:---But every language has fyllables that may be pronounced long or thort at pleasure;--the English language, above all others, abounds in fylbles of that kind." Elem. of Crit.

OF SENTENCES.

What is a fentence ?

ac.

On

ac.

me,

āte,

ing

but ful,

ring

ned

ter,

) F

the ables

e ;--- n fyl-

rit.

A combination of words, fo arranged as to exprefs a complete thought; as, Attention is requifite in every fludy.

OF EMPHASIS AND CADENCE.

What is meant by emphasis and cadence?

li. A proper modulation of the voice in reading; re; thus, emphasis raises the voice, and cadence lowg a ers it, on certain words of a fentence.

What is the difference between accent and embasis?

Accent diffinguishes words from each other, without regard to their agreement or difagreenent: emphasis points out the rank which they old in the mind.—Accent address itself to the ar only: emphasis through the ear, to the understanding. * How

* To illustrate this, take the following featence :---Vill you lend me that ink-stand?

Will you, &c. No. I will not lend it.

Will you, &c. No, it is not mine, to lend.

Will you lend, &c. No, nor fell it.

Will you lend me, &c. No, not you, not any one elfe. Will you lend me that, &c. No, not this one.

Will you lend me that ink-fland? No, but you may ave the fand-box?

Hence it is evident, That the true meaning of a fenence cannot be conveyed, unless the emphasis be propery placed;---and, that whatever word shews the chief efign of the fentence is emphatical.

How may the proper management of voice be acquired? By frequently practifing, and carefully attend. ing to those who read well. *

OF PUNCTUATION.

What is punduation ?

24

The art of dividing a discourse into periods, and those periods into their constituent parts, for directing the reader to keep time, and read with propriety. +

How many points are there ?

There are chiefly four, denoting the time or length of a paule, viz. or h

bu

br

tre

ſyl

n

let

as,

for

for tha

the mat

Comma	2	C
Semicolon	(thus)
Colon	(marked	5
Period, or full ftop)	C

* No perfon can be faid to read well, till he read with the fame natural eafe, that he expresses the thoughts which arife in his own mind; wherefore, before a perfon can read diffinctly, he ought thoroughly to understand all that he fays, and to interest himself in the subject so far as to raife, in himself, those seeings which he defires to excite in others: for, as the poet fays,

My grief with yours, a just proportion bears; To make me weep, you must be first in tears.

+ The paufes flould be determined by the wants of refpiration and the laws of tafte; but no rules, of prevailing authority, have yet been eftablished for that purpofe; although the invention be founded upon rational and determinate principles. Thofe, however, who have a clear conception of what is written, will eafily perceive where the points thould be placed;---and, thofe, who have obferved good speakers, will readily perceive what tones should be used previous to each point.

25

The comma is equal to the time of a fhort fyllable, the femicolon two, the colon three, and the period four. *

There are other three points which require a different modulation of the voice :- An interrogation [?] when a queffion is afked; as, Whence? and what art thou ?- An admiration [!] when fudden wondering is expressed; as, O virtue ! O my country !- A parenthese () when a phrase, or fentence is inferted within another fentence, the better to illustrate it; but which may be left out and the fentence remain entire; as, For this prefent I would not (fo with love I might intreat you) be any further mov'd.

What other marks are used?

There are feveral others, fuch as;

1. Accent (' or ') over a vowel, or after a fyllable, fhews where the ftrefs of the voice lies, in pronouncing words.

2. Apostrophe (') shews that fome letter, or letters are left out, for quicker pronunciation; as, I'll for I will, wou'd'it for wouldest, sha'n't for shall not, ne'er for never.

3. Breve (`) over a vowel, denotes that it founds fhort; as, căn, bĕnd, fĭn, nŏt, bŭt.

4. Hyphen (-) at the end of a line, denotes that the fyllables of a word are parted, and that C the

* The exact diffunction between the femicolon and the colon, feems to be but little regarded, nor is it very material.

ts of evailpofe; d declear where obferhould

1?

d.

ds,

ts,

ad

10 read

ghts

peret io

efires

26

the remainder of it is at the beginning of the next line. It is also used in compound words; as, Ale-house, Inn-keeper, North-Britain, Attorney-General, &c. When placed over a vowel, it denotes the long found; as, fame, here, mine, tone, tune. 5. Caret (^) when placed under a line, in writing, denotes that fomething omitted is to be unto mine office,

1

ſe

w

P

I

S

y

п

Ĥ

C

Ć

PI

t

taken in there; as, Me he reftored a and him he hanged.—When placed over a vowel, it is called a circumflex accent, and marks a particular long found; as, hall, there, fhield, prove, full.

6 Index () fignifies that the paffage, against which it is placed, is very remarkable.

7. Afterism (*) points out some remark in the margin, or at the foot of the page. Several of them mark something defective.

8. Obelifk (+) or thus (‡) is used to refer the reader to the margin. In dictionaries it commonly shews a word to be obsolete.

9. Paragraph (¶) comprehends feveral fentences under one head or fubject.

10. Brackets [] include words or fentences of the fame fignification with those they are joined to, and which may be used in their stead.

11. Quotation (") or (') and at the end (") or (') shews that the passage fo marked is quoted out of an author, in his own words.

12. Section (\oint) is used in fubdividing chapters, or books, into fmaller parts, or portions.

13. Paralleis (||), letters or figures, thus (a),

(1),

1), or (*), refer to fome note on the margin, or at the foot of the page.

OF CAPITAL LETTERS.

What words Should begin with a Capital? It is proper to begin with a Capital,

he

as,

y-

in

be

he

ed

ng

2-

in ral

fer

it

-115

ces.

in-

nd

lis

ap-

a), 1), 1. The first word of every book, chapter, letter, note, or any other piece of writing.

2. The first word after a period ;—and, after an interrogation, or admiration, when the two fentences are independent of each other: but, when the construction of the latter fentence depends on the former, all, except the first, may begin with a fmall letter.

3. All the appellations of the Deity; as, God, Lord, Father, Jehovah, Almighty, Meffiah, Son, Saviour, Redeemer, Spirit, Divine Being, &c.

4. Titles of honour, in direct addreffes; as, your Highnels, your Grace, your Lordship,my Lord, my Lady, Sir, Madam.

5. Proper names of perfons, places, fiteets, mountains, rivers, fhips, months, days; as, John, Glafgow; Gallowgate, the Alps, the Clyde, the Centaur, April, Tuefday. *

6. Adjectives derived from proper names of places; as, Greeian, Roman, Scotch, Englifh, French, Spanifh, Italian, German, American.

C 2

7.

* It was formerly usual, both in writing and printing; to begin every noun with a capital; but this cuffoff, which was neither afeful nor ornamental, is now laid afide.

7. Titles of books; as, Milton's Paradife loft, Thomfon's Seafons, Butler's Hudibras.

28

8. Every fentence introduced as fpoken by another; as, And God faid, Let there be light, and there was light.

9. The first word of a quotation, introduced in a direct form, thus, Pythagoras fays, "Reve-" rence thyfelf." But when brought in obliquely, or after a comma, a capital, is unneceffary; as, Plato observes, " that God geometrizes."

10. Words having a confiderable firefs of the Author's meaning; as, the Reformation, the Reftoration, the Revolution, the Conflictution.

11. The Pronoun I, and the Interjection O; as, I speak. Hear O heavens!

12. Every line or verfe in Poetry.

13. Sometimes a whole word or fentence is fut in capitals; as, JEHOVAH; THE LORD OUR RIGHTEOUSNESS; But capitals fhould never be written in the middle, or at the end of words, among fmall letters; as, letTer, worD.—except in Anagrams. *

FIGURES

1

78

9 th

fr

2

L

2

f

P8

i

i

* An ANAGRAM is one word changed into another, by transposing the letters of which it is composed; as, If you transpose what ladies wear, VEIL. 'Twill plainly shew what harlots are; VILE. Change it again, and it will shew What all mankind defire to do; LIVE. Again, if you transpose the same, You'll see an ancient Hebrew name. LEVI. This kind of wit, together with the Chronogram, Acrofic, and feveral other low conceits, is mostly gone hto difuse. ______ See SPECTATOR, No. 60. ENGLISH GRAMMAR. 29 IGURES and NUMERAL LETTERS. *

1	I	111	XI I	30 XXX
2	11 ,	112	XII	40 XL
2	III	13	XIII	50 L
14	17	114	XIV	60 LX
1.5	V	115	XV	70 LXX
50	VI	16	XVI	to LXXX
7	VII	17	XVII	go XC
8	VIII	18	XVIII	100 C
9	1X	19	XIX	500 Dor Ig
10	X	20	XX	1000 MorClo

ABBREVIATIONS. +

What is an abbreviation ?

A.

aht,

rely,

he he

);

is

Dals

he er,

S

er,

25,

111.

ne

One or more letters of a word put to denote the whole word; as,

A. B. or B. A. Batchelor of Arts.

A. M. or M. A. Mafter of Arts.

A. M. alfo, in the Year of the World.

C 3

A. M.

* A leis numeral letter, before a greater, must be taken from it; as, IV, 4; IX, 9; XL, 40, XC, 90, &c. a leis, after a greater, must be added; as, VI, 6; XI, 11; LX, 60; CX, 110; &c.---A numeral leis than 1000, with a line drawn over it, fignifies fo many thousands; as, V, 5000; LX, 60,000; M, 1000,000, &c.

† The great variety of abbreviations and contractions formerly ufed, fuch as E. g. Exempli gratia, as for example; i. e. id eft, that is; viz. to wit, yn, then; yt, that, &c. &c. are now generally rejected. Contractions uied in books of arts and fciences, are explained by these who introduce them:

A. M. alfo, Before Noon.

P. M. After Noon.

A. D. in the Year of our Lord.

B. D. Batchelor in Divinity.

D. D. Doctor in Divinity.

S. T. P. Profeffor of Divinity.

V. D. M. Minister of the Word of God.

M. D. Doctor of Medicine.

LL. D. Doctor of Laws.

I. U. D. Doctor of Laws.

F. R. S. Fellow of the Royal Society.

F. S. A. Fellow of the Society of Antiquarians, With many others, " by far too venerable for vernacular appearance, and infinitely too profound for mere Mothertonguemongers;" which fhow that " LATIN was the language of Icience, before her daughters came of age."

OF POETRY, OR VERSIFICATION. What is versification?

The arrangement of a certain number of fyllables in a line, according to certain measures called feet, which, whether in Rhyme * or Blank verse, † are named according to their order and time; thus,

Pyrrhic		" two	fort	as,	mirror.
Iamb.	1. The		and long	The state	ĕmplōy.
A CARLEND AND AN AND	1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1	A STATEMENT		S. M. M. S. S.	A COPPE AND

Trochee

p

of

H

A

7

* Rhyme is the termination of two or more lines with the fame firing vowel, but different confonants.
† Blank verfe is a harmonious difpolition of certain fyllables into Poetic feet, without regard to fimilar endings.

rochee - long and fort jöyfül. pondee - two long fömetīmes. inapeft. - two fbort and one long ündertāke. Dactylus one long and two fbort aŭdible.

Every one of these names is an example of its wn kind of feet, by one or other of which, eiher pure or mixed, all the different kinds of English verse may be scanned. *

IAMBIC MEASURE is the most general in English Poetry; it may confist of any number of feet not exceeding fix, or at most feven; as,

> Wíth raj vǐfh'd ēars, Thế môn jărch hears, Aflūmes | thế gốd, Affécts | tố nôd, And feēms | tố fhắke | thế fphēres.

ns,

er-

ind

hat

her

Ι.

yl-

alnk

nd

nee

ith

lar

No more | bỹ vã |rỹ'd pãs |sĭons bēat, O gênt ly gũide | mỹ pĩl |grĩm feet Tờ fĩnd | thy hêr mĩt cêll; Whěre, ĩn | fôme pũre | ănd ê |quải ſkỹ, Běneāth | thỹ fôft | ĭndũl |gěnt êye, Thế mõ |dếft vĩr |tũes dwêll.

Hě (čes | proud grān | děuŕ's mē | teor-rāy,
And feals | thế nā | tions' āw | ful doom;
Hě yields | to joy | thế fes | tíve dãy,
Thến fweeps | thế lêngth | ning fhade, | and marks | thếm for | thế tômb.

Can mufic foothe the deafen'd ear? Will hope's gay ftream repel the tide? Will pray'r recal the diftant year? Or pity touch the heart of pride?

* Pointing out the poetic feet, by afcertaining the long and thort fyllables in a verfe, is called SCANNING it.

32

Iambie measure is often diversified with a Trochee, a Spondee, or a Pyrrhic foot. The most common variation is a Trochee in the beginning of the line, or after a pause; as, Pride still | is aim | ing at | the bless | abodes, Men would | be an | gels, an | gels would | be gods. Man is | the no bler growth | our realms | supply, And souls | are ripten'd in | our nor | there sky.

he

hu

hre

am

let

W Iŏw

W

tw

h

Гhŏ Ič t

> It T

> > M

D

or t

and

AI

Why

Nö

Ně

A Spondee is fometimes introduced, in this measure, by the emphasis' falling on a fyllable which should be regularly short, and is mostly preceded or followed by a Pyrrhic, which varies the harmony without altering the time; as, Know then | this truth | (enough | for man | to know) Virtue | alone | is hap | piness | below.

Thêu from | his clos | ing eyes | thỷ fòrm fhåll pårt, And thẻ | lậft pảng | shảll têar | theẻ from | his heart; Life's i | dlè būs | něis ắt | ône gảip | bẻ o'êr, Thẻ mūle | forgot, | and thou | bělovid | nó môre.

TROCHAIC MEASURE may confift of one, two, or three feet, the lines being concluded with a ftrong fyllable; as,

> On thỹ | hànd Lêr mề | ftănd, Sõ fhăil | I,

Lôfty | Počt, | touch the | fky.

Vītāl | ſpārk ŏſ | heāv'nlỹ | flāme,
Qūit, O | qūit thǐs | mortāl | ſrāme;
Trēmbling | hoping | līng'ring | flỹing *
O thĕ | paīn, thĕ | blīſs ŏſ | dỹing;
Cēaſe fönd | nātŭre | cēaſe thỹ | ſtrīſe,
And | lēt mĕ | lānguǐſh | īntŏ | līſe.

* A different feeble vowel, following a ftrong one in the end of a kine, does not violate the rhyme.

Bid the warbling nine retire, Venus, ftring thy fervant's lyre; Love fhall be my endlefs theme, Pleafure fhall triumph o'er fame.

he

ić.

his

ble

Hy

12-

s,

w)

rt;

vo,

a

e in

Trochaic verfe becomes Iambic, by fetting off he odd fyllable at the beginning of the line; hus,

Viltal fpark | of heav'n'ly flame, &cc.

ANAPESTIC MEASURE may confift of two, hree or four feet, the first foot being often an amb.; as,

> Thủs fõng | could prevail O'er death | and o'er hell.

Tet mỹ reed | fhåll réfound ! thrö' thế grove,
Wíth thể fàme | fắd còmplaint | ĭt bếgũn ;
Hồw fhế fmil'd, ; ănd I could | nöt bút love ;
Wắs fãith liếfs, ănd I | ăm undône.

t wäs thên | bỹ thế câve, ởf ả moũn tain réclin'd, A hệr mit his night lý cómplaint i thủs bếgản; Thổ môurn | fùl his nũm bếrs, his foul | wâs réfign'd: lễ thought lás ả fâge, l bùt hế fếlt lás ả mãn.

It was thus by the glare of falle fcience betray'd, That leads, to bewilder; and dazzles, to blind; My thoughts wont to roam, from fhade onward to fhade, Deftruction before, me and forrow behind.

DAETYLIC MEASURE may confift of one, two, or three Dactyls, introduced by a feeble fyllable, and terminated by a ftrong one; as,

A | côblěr thère was and hě | līv'd ĭn ä | ftall, Whích | ferv'd hím för | kitchěn för | parlour and | hall; Nő côin ĭn hís pôckět, nö | câre ĭn hís | pate; Ně ăm | bītion hě | had, and nö | dũns at hís | gate.

Dactylic

ft

if

13

]

fe

y

0.

a

a

P

2 aif

bai

ha he

-

n /

n 1

xp

ie

Cq

all

Dactylic measure becomes Anapestic, by fetting off an lambic foot in the beginning of the line; * as,

A coblier there was | and he liv'd | in & fall, Scc.

34

DIRECTIONS FOR READING.

- 1. Acquire a perfect knowledge of the founds of the letters, and the quantity of fyllables.
- 2. Do not guess at the pronunciation of a word; but go over the fyllables, one by one, thes pronounce it clearly and diffinctly.
- 3. Let the tone of voice, in reading, be exactly the fame as in fpeaking.
- 4. Read fo loud as to be diffinctly heard, but not louder.
- 5. Observe well the pauses, and accents, and never flop but where the sense will admit.
- 6. Humour your voice a little, according as the fubject may require.
- 7. Do not read too fast, left you get a habit of ftammering

* Thus, all verfes, of two fyllable-feet, may be either taken for Iambic, or Trochaic; and all three-fyllable feet, for Anapeffic, or Dactylic; the harmony of English Verfe, depending, on the return of emphatic and non-emphatic fyllables, rather than on the metrical feet. For, fyllables which are by derivation, nature, or position long, are often put for short ones; and fyllables short by position, substituted in place of long ones; accent and quantity being used indiferiminately, and strength allowed to supply the place of length.

ftammering, adding or omitting words; and, if poffible, let your underftanding keep pace with your tongue.

Read flow, and all the other graces Will follow, in their proper places.

let.

the

.

s of

rd;

hes

Aly

but

and

the

t of

ing

ther

feet,

erfe,

atic

bles

are

tion,

stity

fup-

Diffinguish the more fignificant words in each fentence, by a natural, forcible, and varied Emphasis.

Accompany the emotions and paffions which your words express, by correspondent tones, looks, and gestures.

o. In reading Verfe, pronounce every word just as if it were profe, observing the pauses, and accents; and if it be not harmonious, the poet, and not the reader, is to blame.

n Rhyme, when the end of a line will not admit of a comma, as,

To bis temptations loud'y fle inclin'd Her foul, and for an apple dann'd mankind, aife your voice a little, and make a fhort paufe, to give notice that the line is ended; that is giving the poet as much affittance as the reader can afford without wronging himfelf. T H E

 Whether we receive our ideas from the ear, as a conversation, from the memory, as in RECITING, a from the eye, as in READING, we fhould be careful to aprefs them nearly in the fame manner, and with that leafing variety which nature directs. But when we cquire unnatural tones, by imitating others, we generally all into affectation, which is always difgufting.

PARTS OF SPEECH;

THE

OR,

DIFFERENT KINDS OF WORDS.

of

Th

nal

tre

oy

1.78

ł

bee

clat

tha

we, but out

der

enc

par

1

as,

ate.

hou

mai

bre

fary

II.

HOW many kinds of words, or parts of Speech, are in the English Language?

Nine: 1. the Article, 2. the Noun, 3. the Adjective, 4. the Pronoun, 5. the Verb, 6. the Adverb, 7. the Preposition, 8. the Conjunction, 9. the Interjection.

I. THE ARTICLE. * What is an article?

A part of speech set before common names, to limit their vague fignification; as, man, a man, the man; day, a day, the day.

How many articles are there ? :

Two: a or an called the indefinite article; and the, called the definite article; as, an age, the age; a year, the year; an hour, the hour. +

* From the Latin word Articulus, a little joint.

† A or an denotes individuals as unknows. A is placed before words beginning with a confonant; as, a king, a queen; an, before words beginning with a vowel, or b mute; as, an emperor, an empress, an heir, an heirefs; and fignifies one; as, one king, &c. without determining what particular one is meant. It is only prefixed to nouns of the fingular number. The denotes individuals as known. It points out fome particular one; as, the king of Britain, the empress of Ruffia, &c. It is prefixed to nouns either fingular or plural.

H. THE NOUN. *

What is a noun, or fubflantive?

The name of every thing—that is the object of our feveral fenfes, reflection or understanding, —and is either proper or common.

What is a proper name?

S.

ech,

the

the

on,

nes,

, 4

and

the

II.

pla-

king,

orb

; and ining

d to duals

, the

fixed

The name of an individual; as, London, James, Thames, January, Wednefday, &c.

What is a common name?

The name of one or more claffes of individnals; as, animal, vegetable, man, beaft, city, river, tree, flower, earth, ftone, clay, fand, month, day, joy, grief, love, fear, † &c.

How many accidents belong to nouns? Three: number, gender, and cafe.

OF

* From the Latin word Nomen, a name.

† The diversity of objects being fo great as to render it impossible to give a name of every individual, it has been found expedient to arrange them under certain claffes, the names of which are more easily acquired; fo that, referring unknown objects to their proper claffes, we, not only supply the scening want of proper names, but give a precision and permanence to language, without which it could not possibly be either learned or understood, --- or applied to the purposes of reasoning or fcience: common names are, therefore, the most effential part of language.

Names may be divided into three forts, viz. 1. Natural; as, animal, vegetable, man, tree, &c. which are immediately formed by the Author of Nature. 2. Artificial; as, houle, fhip, watch, &c. which are formed by the art of man. 3. Abstract; as, flight, whiteness, hardness, length, breadth, depth, &c. which are abstracted from their neceslary subjects, by the more refined powers of imagination.

de

wł

go

do

to gu ch

wo

die

wł

Ca

pe

fer

fer

ne

wl

OF NUMBER.

What is meant by number? The diffinction of one from more. How many numbers are there?

38

Two: the fingular, fignifying one; and the plural, more than one; as, pen, pens; tree, trees; leaf, leaves; child, children; brother, brethren. How is the plural number formed?

1. By adding s to the fingular; as, boy, boys; girk girls; town, towns; village, villages.

2. Nouns ending in ch, fh, fs, and x, take a in the plural; as, church, churches; blufh, blufhcs; mefs, meffes; box, boxes; crutch, crutches.

3. Nouns ending in f or fe, are often changed into ves; as, calf, calves; knife, knives; wolf, wolves; felf, felves:—others follow Rule 1. as, chief, chiefs; grief, griefs; dwarf, dwarfs.

4. Nouns ending in y, preceded by a confonant, take ies in the plural; as, berry, berries; cherry, cherries; mercy, mercies; but, when y is preceded by a vowel, the plural is formed by Rule 1. as, joy, joys; delay, delays; effay, effays.

5. Nouns ending in is make es in the plural; as, axis, axes; theis, thefes; emphafis, emphafes; parenthefis, parenthefes.

6. Some are alike in both numbers; as, fern, hofe, deer, sheep; in which the singular is diftin-

* Nouns, being the names of fubftances, must be adapted to fnew whether we speak of one object, or eimore than one.

tinguished by the article; thus, a fern, a hofe, a deer, a sheep.

 Some nouns, from the nature of the things which they express, have only the fingular; as, gold, filver, wheat, barley, rice, pride, floth.
 Some, which art or nature has formed double, have only the plural; as, bowels, lungs, tongs, fciffars, bellows, afhes, wages, news.

9. Some nouns, introduced from other languages, retain their original plural; as, cherub, cherubim; radius, radii; beau, beaux.

10. Some are irregular; as, man, men; woman, women; ox, oxen; foot, feet; goofe, gcefe; die, dice; penny, pence; and many others.

11. Proper names want the plural; except when a race, or family, is meant; as, the Campbells, the Howards, in which cafe the proper name becomes a common one.

OF GENDER. *

What is meant by gender ?

the

les;

en.

ys;

es es

Ih-

nes.

red

olf,

as,

nt, Ty,

ded

25,

al;

ha-

rn,

lif-

in-

· a-

0

The diffinction of nouns, according to their fex, or want of fex.

How many genders are there?

Three: the mafculine \dagger denoting the male fex; the feminine, \ddagger the female fex; and the neuter, \oint denoting inanimate objects, and those whole fex is not known.

D 2 The

* From Genus a fex or kind. + From Mas, the male kind. + From Femina, awoman. Neuter, Latin, neither. In the English Language.

40

The different SEXEs are fometimes diffinguished by different words.

C. C. S.	by uniters	me words.	States of the second
Mafc.	Fem.	Mafe.	Fem.
batchelor	maid, virg.	king	ducen
boy	girl	lad	lafs
boar	fow	lord	lady
brother	fifter	man	woman
bridegroom	bride	moor	morifco
buck	doe	milter	fpawner
bull	COW	nephew	niece
bullock	heifer	rake	jilt
cock	hen	ram	ewė
drake	duck	fon	daughter
duke	duchefs .	floven	flut
earl	countels	fultan	fultana
father	mother	flag .	hind gander	goofe	Ater	heifer
hero	heroine	uncle	aunt
horfe	mare	widower	widow
hufband	wife	wizard	witch

every male animal, and none elfe, is in the mafculine gender; every female, and none elfe, in the feminine; and every animal, whofe fex is not known, as well as every inanimate object, in the neuter; except when inanimate objects are perfonised; as, Death is common to all, he spares neither rich nor poor.... The Earth is the mother of man; fibe brings forth his food.....

"The chaftity of the English Language, which, in "common ulage, diffinguishes by genders, no words but "what fignify beings male and female, gives thus a fine "opportunity for the profopopæia [perfonification]; a "beauty unknown in other languages, where every word "ismafculine or feminine."---LORD KATMS' Elem. of Crit.

Some

fa

22

So

M abl act ban con ele em go hei ho jev lio ma So

41

Some are diffinguished by their feminine ending in es.

Fem.	Mafc.	Fem.
abbefs	mafter	miftrefs
actrefs	patron	patronels
baronefs	prieft	prieftefs
countefs	prince	princefs
electrefs	poet	poetefs
empreſs	prophet	prophetefs
governefs	finger	fongftrefs
heirefs	forcerer	forcerefs
hoftefs	traitor	traitrefs
jewefs	tutor	tutrefs
lionefs	victor	victress
marchionefs	viscount	viscountes
	abbefs actrefs baronefs countefs electrefs emprefs governefs heirefs hoftefs jewefs lionefs	abbefs maîter actrefs patron baronefs prieft countefs prince electrefs poet emprefs prophet governefs finger heirefs forcerer hoftefs traitor jewefs tutor

Some nouns ending in or, in the mafculine, have ix in the feminine; as,

Fem.
administratrix doctrix executrix heritrix teftatrix

OF CASES. What is meant by cafes?

The	different	alterations	or	modifications
	State of	D 3		which

* So called from cado to fall, becaufe they naturally fall or flow from the Nominative, which is therefore named the ftraight cafe, as the reft are called oblique.

ed

me line ne; as ha-

to

in but fine

; 2

ord

rit

which may happen to a noun by termination or preposition. *

How many cafes are there?

40

Six: the Nominative, Genitive, Dative, Accufative, Vocative, and Ablative.

What does the nominative cafe denote?

The nominative denotes the name of any perfon or thing; as, man, a man, the man.

What does the genitive cafe denote?

The genitive denotes property or possession; as, man's \ddagger life, or the life of man; Diana's chastity, or the chastity of Diana.

What

I

7 hin

ing

ent

br

1 whi

nir

as,

of

con

in,

T

do

thr

No

G

D

A

V

A

* Some languages vary the terminations, or endings. of their nouns, to point out their different connections, exc. Others allow the noun to remain the fame, expreifing its relation to, and connection with other words by the help of prepolitions. English nouns, the Genitive excepted, have no different terminations, but their different connections are expressed by prepositions, answering the fame purpole which different terminations do in other languages: therefore, it is of fmall importance whether we admit of two cafes, formed by terminations, or fix, formed by prepofitions: only by enumerating the fix cafes, we point out the relation between nouns and their correspondent prepositions, and preferve, in fome measure, the analogy between the English and the Latin Languages, that those who have learned the one may not be perplexed with a new fet of terms in learning the other.

† This termination appears to be derived from our Saxon anceftors, who formed many of their genitives by affixing es to the nominative cafe; as, James, Jamefes; Smith, Smithes; inftead of which e we now use the apotrophe; as, James's, Smith's, &c.

43

What does the dative cafe denote ?

10

.C-

rn; a's

at

gs.

ns,. ef-

by

ve

if-

er-

in ce

ns,

ng ns in he ne

nr es s; The dative denotes giving, or doing fomehing to a perfon or thing; and is known by haing the preposition to or for prefixed; as, I ent the goods to Leith, where they were shipped or Holland.

What does the accufative cafe denote?

The accufative is the subject, or object, on which the action implied in an active verb, terninates; as, I love John, I make a pen.

What does the vocative cafe denote ?

The vocative calls upon a perfon, or thing; as, O foolifh man ! O earth ! earth !

What does the ablative safe denote ?

The ablative indicates the caufe and manner of an action, or the inftrument with which it is done; and is known by the prepositions with, in, by, from, thro'; as, He writes with a pen. They live in the country. He passed by the door. She came from France. It was carried thro' the city.

How are nouns declined ?

In the following manner.

S	ingular.	I	Plural.
Nom.	a book	Nom.	books
Gen.	a book's, or of a book	Gen.	books', or of
Dat.	to or for a book	Dat.	to or for books
Acc.		Acc.	books
Voc.	O book	Voc.	O books
Abl.	with, in, by, from,	Abl.	with-books.
	thro' a book.		RULES

94

RULES OF SYNTAX. RULE I.

n

H

her

B ill

ha

1

r,

N

h

1 ipe

H

T om

H

I

n

h

I

igh

off ual

s, 'a

n ver

min

N

When two nouns come together, implying polfeffion, the latter governs * the former with ('s) † added to it, in the genitive; as,

This is John's book. A beggar's fong is more chearful than a thief's. Man's fall is man's milfortune. Have you read Pope's Homer? Four kings contended for that king's crown. Can you put these needles thro' this needle's eye? Here are John, James and Robert's shares.

Then shall man's pride and dulness comprehend His actions', passions', being's use and end.

III. THE ADJECTIVE. ‡ What is an adjetive?

A word expreffing the quality or property of

* One word is faid to govern another, when it causes it to be in a certain case.

† The genitive of nouns ending in s, is frequently denoted by adding only the apostrophe; as, Cyrus' travels, the Printers' Grammar, the Ladies' Memorandum Book; for the travels of Cyrus, the Grammar of the Printers, the Memorandum Book of the Ladies.

[‡] From ad to, and jacio to eaft, or throw: the adjective being prefixed or affixed to nouns, to denote their qualities or properties; thus, good, bad, wife, foolifh, rich, poor, virtuous, vicious, tall, fhort, great, little, bountiful, niggardly induftrious, flothful, honeft, fober, &c. are adjectives, exprefing the qualities or properties of the noun man; as, a good man, a bad man, &c. So yellow, fine, hard, pure, precious, fcarce, &c. are qualities or properties of the noun gold. Hence adjectives, depend on, and are inherent in fubftantives, but can make no fenfe by themfelves.

noun; as, good, bad, wife, foolifh, rich, poor. How may an adjettive be diffinguished from any her part of speech?

By affixing the word thing to it, with which it ill make fenfe; as, a good thing, a bad thing, hard thing, a foft thing.

Are adjettives ever varied on account of numr, gender or cafe?

No: but they admit of degrees of comparison. How many degrees of comparison are there?

Three: the positive, the comparative, and the perlative.

What does the positive degree express?

loc.

)+

IOT

ní

our

you are

y of ules

de-

vels,

:300

ters,

ad-

heir lifh, ttle; ber,

rties

qua-

ives,

can

So

The fimple quality or property itfelf, without omparing it with any other; as, my book is neat. What does the comparative degree express?

It enlarges or decreases the quality of the hing, a degree from the positive; as, your book neater than mine.

What does the superlative degree express?

It increases the fense of the positive to the ighest, or diminishes it to the lowest degree offible; as, his book is neatest. *

How

45

* Sometimes the fuperlative degree lofes its relative uality, and denotes only a very great excels or defect; s, a most beautiful woman, a most learned man,---that s, not the most beautiful woman, or learned man, that ver existed, but perfons possessing these qualities in an minent degree.

Norr 1. When more than three objects are compar-

IOU

mo ud

1-1

ha

A

AW

M

H

Pc.

C

as er i

C

nus

fty

1

A

ent

I

on

I

ed

How is the comparative degree formed? By adding er to the politive, when it ends with a confonant, and r only when it ends with er or, by prefixing the adverb more to it; as, fwee, fweeter, or more fweet; wife, wifer, &c.

How is the superlative degree formed?

By adding f or eft to the positive, or by profixing most to it; as, fweet, fweeteft, or most fweet; wife, &c. or, by prefixing very, exceedingly, infinitely, extremely to it; as, very fweet

EXAMPLES.

Pof. Comp. Superl. Fine, finer, or more fine, fineft, or most fine — er, or more — eft, or most —

RULE II.

The adverbs more and most fhould not be prefixed to adjectives compared by er or est; no fhould ed, the comparative degree is repeated as often as then is occasion; thus,

Pof. Comp. Superl.

fine, finer, finer, finer, finer, &c. fineft.

2. When only two objects are compared, the politic and comparative, not the inperlative, are used; as A certain man had two fons, and the younger of them faid, &

3. Adjectives expressing any quality equally, in two of more objects, do not admit of comparison; as, full, emp ty, round, square, double, triple, daily, yearly, &c. &c 4. Some adjectives are irregular: as

Pof.	Comp.	Superl.	Pof.	Comp.	Superl.
good	better	beft	little	leís	leaft
ill, had	worle	worft	near	nearer	next

46

would er or est be added when more or most give more agreeable found; as,

London is larger than Paris. John is more rudent than Robert. Religion is the most chearul thing in the world, and forbids nothing but that corrupts the purity of our minds.

A judge is juft, a chancellor jufter ftill, A gown-man learn'd, a bifhop---what you will: Wife if a minister, but if a king, More wife, more juft, more learn'd---more every thing.

What is the difference betwint one, two, three, Sc. and first, second, third, Sc.?

One denotes fimply the number one, but first as refpect to more; and two means the numer two completely, whereas fecond means only he last of two, and fo of all the rest.

Ordinal adjectives are often improperly used; hus, in the thirtieth and fifth year of his mafly's reign, for, in the thirty-fifth year, &c.

IV. THE PRONOUN. *

What is a pronoun?

With

1 0:

reet,

pre mot

eed

reet.

fine

pre

DO

ould

then

fitive

L cer

, 80

WOO

emp.

erl.

Æ

t

A word fubilituted in place of a noun, to preent the too frequent repetition thereof.

How may nouns and pronouns be diffinguished om the other parts of speech?

Every word which makes fense, with the words

* From pro for, and nomen a name; it being introdued to remove the tediousness and indecorum which would arise from the frequent use of names.

48

I speak of prefixed to it, is either a noun or; pronoun; as, I speak of riches. I speak of them. How many accidents belong to the pronoun?

Rra

700 cau

har

ive

lub

nou I

.5

*

elvi

kc.

alls

ecij

and iety

vroi

t

ede

the '

nde fcer

0 W

OU I

W

In

The pronoun, being a proxy for the noun, he all the attributes, qualities and relations of in principal, viz. number, gender and cafe; toge ther with the diffinction of perfons. *

How many perfons are in discourse?

There are three perfons or heads, which comprehend all the branches of difcourfe; for, we det ther fpeak of ourfelves, to another, or of another. How

* Speech admits only of three fubjects or objects; the perfon speaking, the perfon spoken to, and the perfon a thing fpoken of; very naturally named the first, fecond and third perfons: When a perfon fpeaks of himfelf, he uses the word I, which is the first perfon; when he speak to another he uses the word than or you, which is the fecond perfon; when he fpeaks concerning a perfon a thing, he uses the word he, the, or it (according as the perfon or thing fpoken of is mafculine, feminine, or neuter) which are all the third perfon; but, as the fpeaken, the perfons spoken to, and the perfons, or things spoke of may be many, each of these pronouns has a plural, viz. We the first, ye or you the second, and they the third perfon. Nouns, except when in the vocative cafe, are all of the third perion; and, as we often know no more of their character, or fex, than what we learn from the discourse, it has been found necessary, in the formation of language, to mark their genders, by the triple diftinction of he, the, it. But the first and fecond perions being always prefent, and known by their appearance, drefs, &cc. it would be fuperfluous to mark by art, what is already fufficiently apparent.

How many kinds of pronouns are there? Five : perfonal, relative, interrogative, demonfrative, and indefinite.

Which are the perfonal pronouns?

r

em.

has its ge.

om

: ci

her

Too

; the

on or

f, he peaks

: the

D O

s the

neu-

ker

oken

lural, third

, are more n the ation

ftinc-

s be-

ance, what I, thou, he fhe it, and their plurals we, ye or yon, and they, are called perfonal pronouns, becaufe they fland immediately in place of the name of fome perfon or thing. *

Which are the relative and interrogative pronouns? Who, which, what, and that, are called relative pronouns when they refer to fome preceding subftantive called the antecedent; but when they afk a queftion, they are called interrogative pronouns. +

Which are the demonstrative pronouns?

This and that, with their plurals thefe and those. —This is applied to objects near us, that to ob-E jects

* When perfonal pronouns have felf (in the plural elves) added to them; as, myfelf, himfelf, themfelves, kc. they generally denote that the action mentioned alls on the perfon acting, in which cafe they are called eciprocal pronouns; as, he ruins bimfelf by his extravatance. Sometimes own or felf is added to imply contraiety, or express a thing with greater emphasis; as, I wrote it with my own hand, I'll do it my/elf.

† Relative pronouns refer to a fubject which is anteedent, definite, and known; as, It was Swift who wrote the Tale of a Tub.

Interrogatives refer to a fubject which is fubfequent, indefinite, and unknown, and which the answer will formation; as, Who wrote the Tale of a Tub? Anf. Swift. What, when a relative, includes its antecedent; as, to what you pleafe, for, do that (or the thing) which you pleafe.

fects at a diftance ; as, this is mine, that is yours. They are frequently reckoned adjectives. Which are the indefinite pronouns?

50

Some, any, one, none, each, &c. are called in. definite pronouns, becaufe they express nothing diffinct or determined.

M

N

the for

gar is : M M WI An wit

wh

N

pror

to v

ours my min M b m P tive

the

VARIATIONS OF THE PRONOUNS. +

	Nom.		Gen.	Acc.
I. Per. Sing. Plu.	I		my, mine	me
		12934	our, ours	us
2. Per. Sing. Plu.	Thou,	or you	thy, thine	thee
2. Fer. Plu.	Ye, or	you	your, yours	you
3. Per. Maf. Sing. Fem. Neu.	He		his	him
3. Per. Fem.	She	South 1	her, hers	her
Sing. Neu.	It	1212	its	it
3. Per. Plu.			their, theirs	them
S. U.S. States	8.55 A.			RE

* When this, that, one, each, any, fome, many, all, &c. do not supply the place of nouns, they are not properly pronouns; and, when they do not express the quality or property of nouns, they are not adjectives; hence they are, by fome, called pronominal articles; and, as their principal use is to define and ascertain, they are more properly reckoned articles than any thing elfe. Sometimes they are called diffributives.

+ Pronouns may be declined thus:

I. Per.	Sing.	Plu.
Nom.		We
Gen.	My, mine, or of me	Our, ours, or of us
Dat.	To, or for me	To, or for us
Acc.	Me	Us
Voc.	- Barris and a state of the sector	The state of the
Abl.	With, in, by, from,	With - us.
	through me.	And fo of all the reft.

RELATIVE.

rs.

in.

ng

• †

·c.

2 ee

u

m

r

em

E

any,

not the

ves;

les; they

elfe.

reft.

G. Mal. & Fem. S. P. Who whom whofe S. P. Which which Neut.

RULE'III.

N.

When a pronoun and fubftantive come together denoting poffeffion, the latter governs the former in the genitive; as,

My book is fine paper. His houfe is very elegant. Our plan is better than theirs; but theirs is more coffly than ours.

My name is Norval: on the Grampian hills My father feeds bis flock ; a frugal fwain, Whole conftant cares were to increase his ftore, And keep bis only fon, myfelf, at home.

2. RULE IV.

Pronouns must agree, in number and gender, with the names for which they fland; or to which they refer; * as,

This

51

My, thy, her, our, your, their, are fometimes called pronominal adjectives. They are used when the name, to which they refer, is expressed .---- Mine, thine, hers, ours, yours, theirs, when the name is not expressed; as, my knife is tharper than yours; your book is neater than mine; our laws are better than theirs. &c.

Mine and thine are frequently used before a vowel, or b mute; as, thine eye, mine ear, thine honour. Sc.

Pronouns of the first and third perfons, want the vocative, as they cannot be called upon or addreffed.

* One word is faid to agree with another, when it is of the fame perfon, number, gender, &c. with it.

52

This is the boy who wrote the letter, be fpells well. This is the girl who read laft, fbe is a fine fcholar. My brother and I built this house, and we intend to dwell in it. The fpring returned with its showers, but no leaf of MINE arole. to ne

ha

fills

oth

be am

itfe

a 1

Jar

hin

am

few

the cei

a8 /

for

had

fer

in l

fent

to

3. RULE V.

The Relative who belongs to perfons, which to things; * as,

The man who fpeaks truth shall be honoured. This is the girl who told the story. That is the house which was lately burnt down. These are the trees which we planted.

4. RULE VI.

When two perfons or things are compared or contrafted, in a fentence, and there is occasion

* Who is used when we inquire for a man's name; as, who is that man? what when we would know his occupation, &c. as, what is that man; which when we want to diffinguish one of two or more perfons, or things; as, which of the men, which of the roads, &c.

That is applied, as a relative, indiferiminately to perfons and things:---Tho' it feems most properly applied to irrational animals; as, the dog that caught the hare. The horie that won the race.---That is fometimes used as a relative pronoun fometimes as a demonstrative pronoun, and fometimes as a conjunction; as, Do that that is right; for, do that, or the thing which is right.---See that that that is right be done; for, fee that the thing which is right be done.---I think that that that that man did was might; for, I think that the thing which that man did was right.

to repeat them, that is used to fignify the first mentioned; this, the last; as,

Virtue ennobles the mind; vice debafes it : that infpires the mind with true courage; this fills it with abject timidity.

First and last, former and latter, one and other correspond in the fame manner.

Though the utility of pronouns in language be abundantly evident, yet, when they occasion ambiguity, or confusion in the fense, the noun itfelf, and not the pronoun should be used; as,

Let my heir give, as a legacy, to Thomas, a horfe out of my ftable; which he pleafes. James and John differed yesterday, and he used him very badly.

"All which, with the king and queen's fo ample promifes to bim [the Lord Chancellor] fo few hours before conferring the place on another, and the Duke of York's manner of receiving bim after be had been flut up with bim, as be was informed, might very well excufe bim, for thinking be had fome fhare in the affront he had undergone." CLARENDON.

V. THE VERB.

What is a Verb?

ells

8 a ife,

rn.

e.

ich

ed.

the

are 10 lion

to

: 25,

ccu-

25,

r to lied

are.

pro-

at is that ch is

was

did

A word which denotes being, doing, or fuffering.

E 3

1. Being

* From Verbum, a word: It being the principal word in language, without which, expressed or understood, no fentence can exist.

54

T. Being denotes existence simply, or in some fituation, posture or circumstance; as, to be, to be weary, to stand, to fit, to languish, &c.

ie

at

ve

he

the

fio

qu

as,

cal

ye jun

or

2. Doing denotes all manner of action; as, to leap, to dance, to labour, to teach, to learn.

3. Suffering denotes the imprefions which perfons or things receive when acted upon; as I am taught, he is bruifed, they are fold.

How may verbs be known from other words?

Every word, which makes fenfe, when placed after a noun or pronoun, in the nominative cafe is a verb; as, man exifts, boys play, trees grow, I ftand, you fit, we approached, he labours.

How many kinds of verbs are there?

Four : Substantive, active, passive, and neuter. What is a verb substantive?

That which denotes the being of an object; as, I am, thou art, he is, we are, ye or you are What is a verb active?

That which expresses an action implying an agent acting, and an object acted upon; as, John loves learning. Here John is the agent, love the verb, and learning the object acted upon.

What is a verb paffive?

That which expresses a passion or fuffering, of the receiving of an action. It implies an agent and object, like the verb active, but with this difference, that the object of a passive verb takes the lead, and is followed by the agent; as, learning is loved by John. Here learning is the object, is loved the verb, and John the agent, as before. What

What is a verb neuter ?

me

to

, to nich

as

?

aced

afe.

WO.

ater.

iea

are

g an Tohn

loves

r, or gent

akes

earn-

jeet,

fore.

What

.

That which fignifies an action that has no paricular object whereon to fall, but which terminates wholly in the agent; as, I fland, you run, we dance, fhe fings, they leap.

How are verbs varied, or conjugated?

By perfon, number, mode, tenfe, and voice. How many perfons have verbs?

Three: first, second, and third; agreeing with the perfonal pronouns I, thou, he, &c.

How many numbers have verbs?

Two: fingular and plural; also agreeing with the numbers of the noun and pronoun.

What is meant by mode?

The manner of representing the action or paffion of the person, or nominative; thus,

1. When any thing is fimply declared, or a queftion asked, it is called the indicative * mode; as, I wrote, he did not read, will you go?

2. When it is commanded or intreated, it is called the imperative \dagger or precative; \ddagger as, write ye, let them write, let us behave.

3. When mentioned conditionally, the conjunctive; § as, if I write, although ye behave.

4. When expressing the liberty of the agent, or the possibility of the action, the potential;

- * From indico, to fhew or declare.
- + From impere, to command.
- $ From precor, to pray.
 - § From con together, and jungo to join.
- I From Potentialis (a poffum) to be able.

as, I may write, he can write, they fhould write.
5. When expreffing the fignification, without regard to perfon, number or time, the infinite; *
as, to read, to write, to hear, to underftand.

What is meant by tenfe?

The diffinctions of time.

How many tenfes, or times, are there?

Chiefly three: prefent, paft, and future, called indefinite; but, to express an action, with some particular limitation, several other distinctions are made by prefixing the auxiliary, or helping verbs am, be, can, do, bave, may, must, shall, &c to the prefent of the indicative, or to one of the participles, whereby we can express every idea, action or passion with the greatest precision.

How many voices are there?

Two: the active, expreffing what is done by the agent; and the paffive, expreffing what is done to, or fuffered by the agent. +

What is meant by a regular verb?

That which forms its paft time and participle patt; by adding d or ed to the prefent of the indicative; as, I placed, I have placed.

The

T

ing

Plu.

* felf

he t he a lace

lace

nina uifh

Tł

arry

s, N

aint

W

02

r m heir

ll oi

Whie

or t

re

amil

plu

185.-

nd

5, 2

* From infinitivus, without bounds.

+ The perions, numbers, modes, and tenfes, are called by the fame names in each of the voices.---The variation of the verb is partly made by altering the fyllables of the verb itfelf; and partly by prefixing certain figns to the feveral tenfes.---If the manner of forming the tenfes in each mode, and the perfons in each tenfe, through the feveral parts of any one verb, be observed and remembered, it may be readily applied to any other verb.

56

The conjugation of the regular Active Verb TO PLACE.

INDICATIVE MODE. Prefent time. *

ite.

out

lled

ome

ions

&c.

the dea,

by

it is ciple

e in-

The

alled

ation f the

o the

es in

1 the ·nem•

1 Perfon, 2 Perfon, 3 Perfon. ing. I place, thou placeft, he places -th: Plu. We place, ye, or you place, they place. Paft

* In this tenfe, the first perfon fingular is the verb delf; as, place; the fecond ends in f, or eff: as, place*f*: he third ends in s or tb; as, places or placetb; or, with he auxiliary no prefixed; as, I place, or do place; thou laceft, or doft place; he places, or placeth, or does lace, or doth place. The plural does not vary its terminations, and therefore the perfons can only be diffinuished by their nominatives.

This tense either represents an action as begun and arrying on; as, I place or am placing; or indefinitely; s, My daughters amuse themselves with their music and ainting, while I am busied about the family affairs.

We is used for I in the regal ftyle; as,

Our express will and pleasure is, that no man do trouble is moleft any of our loyal and dutiful subjects, in, or for heir lawful recreations * and of this We command il our Judges, * to take notice.-----

-This deed, for thine efpecial fafety, Which we do tender as we dearly grieve for that which thou haft done, must fend thee hence.

Te or you is used in the polite, and commonly in the amiliar figle, instead of thou, in which case it requires plural verb; as, you are, you were; not, you art, you vas....But thou is used in our addresses to Almighty God, and when we make a particular application to a person; s, Thou art the man.

58

	Paft Imperfect.
S: I ed,	thou -edft,	he -ed.
P. We -ed,	yeed,	they -ed:

Paft Perfect. +

S. I have --ed, thou haft --ed, he has --ed: P. We have--ed, ye-have--ed, they have--ed.

Paft Fuperfect. 1

0 8

ren

or r ion as, bal V

1 au

nuil

ruil

lign

of r

I

fon

plea pofe

t

m

m

1

 CT

25,

con

S

S. I had-ed, thou hadft-ed, he had-ed; P. We had-ed, ye-had-ed, they had-ed. Future.

* This tenfe is formed by adding d, or -ed; or, by prefixing did to the prefent; as, I placed, or did place, &c. It reprefents an action as performed in fome period wholly paft, without specifying the time when; as, h this the man who made the world a wilderness? who defroyed the cities thereof? who opened not the house of his prisoners?

⁺ This tenfe is formed by prefixing the auxiliary HAVI and fubjoining -ed to the prefent. It reprefents an action as finished at, and limited to fome period extending to the prefent; as, I bave learned, in whatfoever state I am, therewith to be content. It is also used indefinitely; as, We have eaten and drunken in thy prefence, and thou bast taught in our streets.

[‡] This tenfe is formed by prefixing the auxiliary HAD and fubjoining -ed to the prefent. It reprefents an action as finished before fome other action or incident, and is always followed by another verb in the pass time; ²⁵, And when Herod bad fought for Peter, and found him not, he examined the keepers, and commanded that they should be put to death.

59

Future. *

1:

1:

-ed.

1

ed.

ure.

, by lace,

eriod

s, ls

de-

fe of

AVI

1 20-ding

atel

tely;

thou

HAD

1 30-

and

; as, him

they

S. I fhall, or will-, thou fhalt, or wilt-, &c. P. We fhall, or will-, ye-fhall, or will-, &c.

Imperative and Precative Modes. † 5. Let me place, place thou, let him place : P. Let us, —ye, or you, let them. Con-

* The figns of this tenfe are fhall or will. It refers to an action not yet begun.

Shall, in the first perfon, fimply implies a future event; as, I fball go, in which I declare my willingnefs or refolution to go;---but, in the fecond and third perfon it implies a command, injunction or threatening; as, Ye fball not eat of the tree of knowledge, neither fball ye touch it, left ye die.

Will, in the first perfon, promifes or threatens; as, I will bring the blind by a way that they know not; I will lead them in paths that they have not known.----I will fet my face against that man, and will make him a fign and a proverb, and will cut him off from the midst of my people.

In afking a queftion, will is improper in the first perfon and fball in the fecond; as, will I go? Is it my own pleafure to go?---fhall I go? Is it your pleafure that I go? † Let, in the first perfon fingular, implies a wifb, purpofe, or refolution; as, "Let me dwell with hermits, let "me reft on the cold earth, let me converse in cottages, "may I but once more ftand candidate for an immortal "crown." Rows.

Let, in the first perfon plural, implies an exbortation; 28, Let us, who are of the day, be fober, &c.

The fecond perfon always implies a permiffion or command; as,

Take me, crown me :

Inveft me with this royal wretchednefs, Let me not know one happy minute more.

Conjuncti	ve Mode. * Pref	ent time.
S. If I place,	if thou place,	if he place:
P. If we place,		if they place
Maria Albert	Paft Time.
S. If I -ed,	if thou -ed,	if he -ed:
P. If we -ed,	if yeed,	if they -ed
1. 1. 1. 1. 1. 1.	and a start of the	Potentia

Be dark, thou fun, in one eternal night!

And cease, thou moon, to rule with paler light !

S. P.

the

forn

am ty a bot

an (

can

libe

imp

mig me

wri

WI

but

clin

clin

&c.

obli

this

Let, in the third perfon, implies a permifion or com mand; as, Let your children tell their children, and their children another generation.---Let the wicked forfake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts, and let him return to the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon.

This mode has properly no perfons but the fecond; as let me, let us, let him, let them: that is, let you me let you us, let you him, let you them, &c.

* In this mode, there is always a conjunction, eithe expressed or understood, before the nominative, implying a condition, fupposition or doubt; and generally depending on some other verb, in the same sentence, either before or after it.—.It is formed like the Indicative mode, only the second and third persons singular admit not a different terminations; thus, If I place, if thou place, if he place, ---or, if I do place, if thou do place, if he do place...-If thou placed, or did place, &c.

If thou fave not thyfelf to night, to morrow thou fhalt be flain....Beware left thou forget the Lord.... Though hand join in hand, the wicked fhall not go unpunifhed....Doth our law judge any man before it bear him, and know what he doth?---O that I were as in months paft!---Whether it were I or they, fo we preach, and fo ye believed.

Some of the best English authors, both ancient and modern, observe this distinction; and the analogy of forming modes, requires it.

60

Potential Mode. Prefent time. *

ace

1: ed

ntia

C071

thei e hi him

him

; 25

me

ithe

aply-

y deither

10de

ot of lace

ie da

thou

d .---

un.

bear

as in each,

and

y of

S. I may —, thou mayeft —, he may —, P. We may —, ye — may —, they may —, or, I can —, thou canft —, &c.

Paft Imperfect. +

S. I might —, thou mighteft —, he might —, P. We might--, ye — might —, they might could —, couldeft, &c. would —, wouldeft, &c. or fhould —, or fhouldeft, &c. F Paft

* MAY and CAN, to which may be added MUST, are the figns of this tenfe.---May denotes the liberty of performing any action; as, I may write a letter; that is, I am at liberty, to write a letter.---Can denotes both liberty and ability; as, I can write a letter; that is, I have both power and liberty to write a letter.---Must denotes an obligation to write; as, I must write a letter, that is, I cannot avoid writing a letter----either now or afterwards.

† MIGHT, COULD, WOULD, and SHOULD, are the figns of this tenfe. Might and could imply a conditional power, liberty or poffibility of performing any action. Would implies an inclination, and flould an obligation; thus, I might write a letter; that is, there is nothing to hinder me from writing a letter, if I chufe to do it. I could write a letter, that is, I have both power and liberty to write a letter.—either now, or at fome other period but the form of exprefilion feems to denote a want of inclination. I would write a letter; that is, I have an inclination to write a letter; but want time, convenience, &c. I flould write a letter; that is, I am under fome obligation to write a letter.—either now or afterwards-

Paft Perfect. .

S. I may have -ed, thou mayeft have -ed, &c. P. We may -ed, ye - may have -ed, &c.

Paft Pluperfect. +

I	might,	thou mighteft, &c.
	could -,	couldeft, &c.
	would -,	wouldeft, &c.
or	fhould have -ed,	or fhouldeft, &c.

Future. 1 I shall have -ed, thou shalt, &c.

Infinitive Mode. 6

Prefent, to place. Pak, to have placed.

Participles

Pr

he art s lo lin I T auf utt T

the .

ingu ies /

I BE b th

mpl In mitt refe

gree

onfo

he 1

011271 ccer imit

write

aft c zc.

Par

ufba

ubita

The

ound

* MAY bave --- ed is the fign of this tenfe. It denotes the poffibility of an action being already done; but does not inform whether it is done or not.

+ MIGHT, COULD, WOULD OF SHOULD have ---ed, are the figns of this tenfe. It denotes power, liberty, inclination or obligation to have performed fome action, but feems to intimate that it was not done; as, I might have written, that is, I was at liberty to write; but it is not expressly faid whether I did fo or not.

t SHALL have --- ed is the fign of this tenfe. It denotes a future action, which shall be finished before, or continued to fome other action; as; when I fhall have read a page, I will fout the book.

aint f This mode expresses the fignification of the verb, without regard to any affertion, perfon or number, 25, with to fpeak, to write.

62

63

Participles. *

Prefent, placing. Pafl, placed, or having placed. F 2 The

kc.

kc.

2.

.

c.

c.

•

ples

otes

does

e the

tion

ns to tten,

efsly

notes

onti-

ad a verb,

, 25,

* From participio to partake; becaufe it partakes of he noun, the adjective, and the verb. There are two participles, the ACTIVE or PRESENT, which ends in ing, is loving, placing, &c. and the PASSIVE or PAST, which in regular verbs) ends in ed, as, loved, placed, trufted, &c. The participle ending in ing is called ACTIVE, beaufe it denotes action, as, I am writing a letter, I am writing a flick, I am running a race, he is telling a flory. The participle ending in ed is called PASSIVE, becaufe, he Englifh language having no different endings to difinguifh a verb which fignifies doing from one which figniies fuffering, the paffive voice is expressed by the verb AM of the participles denote being, doing and fuffering, and imply time, like the other parts of the verb.

In participles, formed from verbs ending in e, the e is mitted; as, love, loving, loved. But, in the participle refent of verbs in ee both are retained; as, fee feeing, gree agreeing, flee fleeing. When verbs end in a fingle onfonant preceded by a fingle vowel bearing the accent, he laft confonant is doubled; as, commit, committing, ommitted; but, when the final fyllable of the verb is not ccented, the laft confonant is not doubled; as, limit, imiting, limited. The verbs chide, bide, flide, finite, write, &cc. lofe e in the participle prefent, and double the aft confonant in the participle paft; as, chidden, hidden, kc.

Participles fometimes become adjectives; as, a loving uband, a learned gentleman. Sometimes they become ubitantives; as, the learning of the ancients; an original ainting; in which events they have no relation to time. They are fometimes compounded with a preposition; with which the verb they come from cannot be co mounded; as, unfeen, unheard, unlearned, unbecoming.

The active verb may be varied, in all its modes and tenfes, by the participle prefent, with the feveral forms of the verb to be.—This manner of conjugation is, by fome Grammarians, called

The MIDDLE VOICE.

P

Pa

Pa

Pa

Fu

Pr

Pa

Pr

Pa

Pa

Pa

Fu

Pre

Pre

whe

tenf

vari

Indicative Mode.

Prefent, I am placing * Paft Imp. I was placing Paft Per. I have been placing Paft Plu. I had been placing Future, I shall or will be placing.

54

Imperative Mode.

Let me be placing, be, or be thou placing. Conjunctive Mode.

Prefent, If I be placing, if thou be placing Pafl, If I were placing, if thou wert placing, Potential Mode.

Prefent, I may, or can be placing Pass Imp. Imight, could, would, or should be—ing Pass Per. I may have been —ing Pass Plu. I might, &c. have been —ing Future, I shall have been —ing.

Infinitive Mode.

Pref. To be -- ing, Pall, to have been -- ing.

Participles.

Pre _____ Paft, having been __ing. PASSIVE

* In this, and the Paffive voice, it was thought unneceffary to infert all the perfons, as they can be eafly fupplied by the Learner.

ENGLISH GRAMMAR. 65 PASSIVE VOICE. * Indicative Mode. Prefent, I am placed Paft Imp. I was -ed Paft Per. I have been -ed Paft Plu. I had been -ed I shall - be -ed. Future, Imperative Mode. Let me be -ed, be thou -ed. Conjunctive Mode. Prefent, If I be -ed, if thou be -ed If I were -ed, if thou wert -ed. Paft, Potential Mode. I may, or can be --ed Prefent, Pall Imp. I might, could, &c., be -ed Paft Per. I may have been -ed Paft Plu. I might, &c. bave been -ed Future, I shall have been -ed. Infinitive Mode. To be -ed, Paf, to have been -ed. Prefent, Participles. Being -ed, Paft, having been -ed. Prefent, Which are the auxiliary, or helping verbs? Am, be, have, do, may, can, shall, will, &c. when they mark the different modes or times of other \mathbf{F} * The Paffive voice is formed, through all its modes. tenfes and perfons, by the participle paft, and the feveral.

variations of the verb TO BE.

ng.

e

of

d

g.

s ng.

ing

TE

t un-

66

other verbs, are confidered as auxiliaries to, or parts of the verb with which they are joined. * Variations

* AM OF BE, when prefixed to the active participle, denotes the continuation of an action; as, I am writing.... When prefixed to the paffive participle, it marks the paffive voice. When flanding by itfelf, it denotes existence, &c. Per

m

be hav

do

nay

can will hal

was wer

had

did mig

con

wor

thou

Pre

Pah

the i confi

ed;

ber ries 1

but.

sum

HAVE, when prefixed to the participle prefent, marks the perfect, and HAD, when prefixed to the participle paft, marks the pluperfect of the Indicative and Potential, in both voices. When it ftands by itfelf, it denotes polteflion; as, I have a book, I had a houfe.

Do marks the prefent, and DID, the paft of the Indicative and Conjunctive modes.----In affertive fentences, do and did imply emphasis or opposition; as, I do love you though you feem not to believe it. I did love you, intimating a ceffation, or doubt of my prefent love.---Do and did are frequently ufed in asking questions; as, Do you know me, my Lord; Did you hear the news?---Do is properly joined with a negative; as, She has a handfome fortune, but I do not admire her beauty.---It is also used in the Imperative mode; as, Do not blame me for what I am innocent of.

MAY, when prefixed to another verb, denotes the liberty of performing any action, either now or afterwards.

MIGHT, the past time of may, implies liberty to perform any action, either at, or after the time of mentioning it; but feems to indicate an intention not to perform it. When prefixed to have, it denotes fomething past, but does not determine whether the thing fpoken of was done or not can, denotes both liberty and ability to perform an action, e ther now or afterwards.

COULD, the past time of can, implies a conditional power, liberty or possibility of performing an action; but feems to indicate a want of inclination. When have is joined to it, it denotes fomething past.

SHALL and WILL denote a future action. SHOULD intimates an obligation, and WOULD an inclination to perform fome action, either now or afterwards.

		t Time,	and a second second
S	ingular.	1 1	Plural.
ersons 1,	2,	3.	1, 2, 3.
m	art	18	are
e	be .	be	be
ave	haft	has, th	have
0	doft .	does, th	do
nay	mayft	may	may
an	canft	can	can
vill	wilt	will	will
hall	fhalt	fhall	fhall
	Paft	Time.
was	waft	was	were
were	wert	were	were
had	hadft	had	had bid	didft	did	did
might	nighteft	might	might
could	couldeft	could	could would	wouldeft	would	would fhould	fhouldeft	fhould	fhould
	CARLES THE ARTICLE CONTRACTOR	ticiples.
Prefent,	Being,	having,	doing:
Paft,	Been,	had,	done.
		S. S. S.	What

* When any of thefe auxiliary verbs ferve to mark the different modes and times of other verbs, they are confidered as parts of the verb to which they are joined; in which cafe all the variations of perfon and number fall on the auxiliary; when there are more auxiliaties than one, the variations fall only on the first of them; but, in their fimple verbal state, they admit of perfon, number, mode and time, like other verbs.

ional ; but we is ive and igh g a are me, ned it I eral t of. i lirds. form g it; Then s not not. n an inti-

68

OF IRREGULAR VERBS.

What is meant by an irregular verb? *

That which does not form its paft time and participle paft, by adding d or ed to the prefent of the indicative; as, I teach, I taught, I have taught. I ride, I rode, I have ridden.

What words are fubject to this irregularity ?

Only fuch as are purely English, and which are either monofyllables, or derived from words of one fyllable.

How are irregular verbs conjugated ?

The only difference between regular and irregular verbs being in the formation of the paft time and participle paft, their conjugation is the fame with regular verbs; only care must be taken not to use the paft time for the participle, nor the participle for the past time; as, I have rode, for I have ridden, stole for stolen, tore for torn, &c. which is a corruption of language.

How may the past time be distinguished from the participle ?

The past time does not admit of an auxiliary verb before it, the participle does; as, I fmote, I have fmitten. I ran, I have run.

The

Pre

Wi

We

1 writ

they

I

I

C

1

are

ye,

* The most common irregularity of English verbs is that of dropping e and changing d into t, in the past time and participle perfect, which feems to have been introduced for the fake of a quicker, or more easy pronunciation, and is rather a contraction than an irregularity.

The Conjugation of the irregular Verb

Present, Write,

and

ent

ave

lich

ordi

rre.

time

ame of to par-

or I

&c.

a the

hary note,

The

bs is paft

been pro-

regu

Paft, wrote, Participle. written.

69

INDICATIVE MODE.

Prefent Time.

I write, thou writeft, he writes, or writeth; We write, ye or you write, they write.

Paft Imperfect.

I wrote, thou wroteft, he wrote; We wrote, ye, or you wrote, they wrote.

Paft Perfect.

I have written, thou haft written, he has written; We have written, ye, —have written, they have written.

Paft Pluperfett.

I had written, thou hadft written, he had, &c.

Future.

I shall or will write, thou shalt, or wilt write, &c.

OF IMPERSONAL VERBS.

What is meant by impersonal verbs?

All English verbs which depend on it or there, are called imperfonal; as, it rains, it snows, it thunders;

. thunders; there is, there was, there were, there may be, &c. becaufe the Nominative fometimes does not appear to be expressed, and is not eafily underftood ; yet there are, in fact, no finite verbs to which a Nominative is not expressed or underftood, either more immediately or remotely.

OF DEFECTIVE VERBS.

What is meant by defective verbs?

Verbs which want fome of their parts; as, may, can, &c. which want the participles, and confequently all the parts formed from them: and, muft, ought, &c. which have only the prefent time.

The

Th

The

Prefet

Ablac m awake Bake

beat . TBO egin

bend ereav

beleec bid

bind bite

bleed blow

break

breed bring build buy burit Can catch

caft

chide choof

cleave

climb cling come clothe ercep

coft

trow Dare

deal dig

do

draw

ercam

drink drive dwell Zat fail feed feel

* Some verbs are not only irregular or defective, but feem to have borrowed parts of other verbs of the like fignification; as, go, went, gone; in which went is borrowed from the obfolete verb to wend. Many examples of this kind are to be found in old authors. Quoth has long fince given place to faid, trow to believe, and nill to will not.

Language, as well as all other human productions, being, in its own nature, liable to conftant changes, and men's thoughts being exceedingly various, they will ftill be inventing new, or reftoring old words, to convey their ideas with more clearness, or greater beauty; for, as the poet fays,

Some words shall rife, that now forgotten lie, Others, in prefent credit, foon shall die, If cuftom will, whose arbitrary iway, Words, and the forms of language, must obey.

70

The IRREGULAR VERBS alphabetically arranged.

The verbs to which r is affixed are also used in the regular form.

.

a, d :: :-

C ut ke orles as ill

ns, nd till eir

Prefent.	Paft.	Participle.	Prefent.	Paft.	Participle.
Abide	abode	abode	fight	fought	fought "
am	W28	been	find (foc	found	found
awake	awoke	awaked	flecfrom a	fied	fled
Bake -	baked	baken	fling	flang, flung	flung
beat .	beat	beat, beaten	flyas a bird	flew	flown
bear	bare, bore	borne	fold	folded	folden r
begin	began	begun	forfake	forfook	forfaken	2.1
bend	bent	bent	freight	fraught r	fraught r
bereave	bereft r	bereft r .	freeze	froze	frozen
befeeeb	befought	befought	Geld	gelt r	gelt r	1.1.
bid	bade	bidden	got (gold		gotten
bind	bound	bound, -en	gildwith	gilt	gilt r
bite	bit	bitten	gird	girt	giftr	1.1 %
bleed	bled	bled	give	gave	given
blow	blow	blown	20	went	gone
break	brake, brok		grind	ground r	ground r	100
breed	bred	bred	grave	graved	graven r	1.1
bring	brought	brought	grow	grew	grown
build	built r	built r	Hang	hung r	hungr	1
buy	hought, col		have	had	had
burft	burft	burft, -en	hear	heard	heard
Can	could	burn, -en	heave	hove r	hoven r
catch	caught	caught	help	helped	holpen
caft	caugut	caft	hew	hewed	A CONTRACTOR AND A CONTRACTOR AND A
chide	chid	chidden	hide	hid	hewen,he	wa
	ule chole	cholen	hit	hit
cleave				held	hit
climb	clave, clov		hold		holden
	clomb	climbed	hurt	hurt	hurt	12.1
cling .	clang, clur		Keep	kept	kept
come	came	come	knit	knit	knit clothe	clad r	clad r	know	knew	known
ercep	crope, crej		Lay-to plac		laid r
coft	coft	coft	lade	laded	laden
wors	crew	crown r	lead.	led	led
Dare	- durft	dared	leave	left	left .
deal	dealt	dealt	lend	lent	lent
dig	dug r	digged	let (dow		lct
do	did	done	lic to lie		lien, lain	1
draw	drew	drawn	lift	lift r	lift r
ercam	dreamt r	dreamt r	light	lit r	lit r
drink	drank	drunk, -en	lofe	loft	loft	1.
drive	drove	driven	load	loaded	loaden r	1.
dwell	dwelt	dwelt	Make	made	made	13.15
Eat	ate	caten .	may	might falt	fell	fallen	mean	meant	meant	A feed	fed	fed	meet	met	Taret
feel	felt	felt		1		melt

72

Prefent.	Paft.	Participle,	Prefent.	Paft.	Participie
melt	melted	molten	fow, the feed	fowed	fown
mow	mowed	mownr	fpeak	fpoke, fpake	fpoken
muft			fpeed	fped	fped
ought, fould			fpell	fpelt	fyelt r
Pay .	paid	paid	fpill .	fpilt	fpilt
put	put	put	ípin .	fpan, fpun	fpun r
Quit	quit r	quit r	fpend	fpent	fpent
Read	read	read	ſpit -	fpat	fpitten
rend, to tear		rent	fpring	fprang	forung
rid, to free rid		rid	fplit	fplit	fpilt.
ride	rede	ridden	fpread	fpread	fpread
rife	role	rifen	Rand	ftood	flood
ring	rang, rung	rung	fteal	ftole	foles
rive	rived	tiven	flick	fluck	fluck
run	T10	rua	fling	ftung	fung
Say .	faid	faid	flink	fank, funk
faw	fawed	fawn r	ftrow	flrowed	frown
fee	faw	feen	ttrike	ftruek	friken
fet	fet	fet	firing	ftrung z	frung t
feck	fought	fought	ftrive	ftrove-	friven
feethe	fod	fodden	firide	ftrode	ftridden
fend	fent	fent	fwear	fwore	fworn
fell	fold	fold	fwccp	fwept	fwept
fhall	thould	1010	fwell	fwelled	fwollen
fhake	thook	thaken	fwim	fwam	fwum
thave	fhaved	fhaven r	fwing	fwang	fwung
thear	thore	fhorn	Take	tuok	taken
fhed	fhed	fhed	tear	tore	torn fhewed	fhewn r	teach	taught	taught
thew	flowed	fhown r	tell	told	told
		and the second se	think	thought	thought
shine	fhone fhod	fhone r	thrive	throve	thriven
thoe	fot	fhod	throw	threw	thrown
fhoot	fhred	fhred .	thruft	thruft	thruit
fhred	fhrank	forunk	tread	trode	trodden
fhrink	forove	foriven	Walh	wafhed	waften :
fhrive	hut	thut	wax	wained	waxen
			wet
fing	fang, fung	furg		wet	wet
fink	fank, funk	funk	weep	wept	wept
fit	fat	fitten	will	would
flay	flew	flain	win	won, wan	won
ficep	flept	flept	wind	wound	woand
flide	flid	flidden	wear	wore	worn
fling	flang	flung	weave	wove	woven
flink	fank, funk		wis, obsolete wift
flit	flit	flit	work!	wrought r	wrought
fmell	Smelt	fmelt	wring	wrung	wrung
fmite	fmote	fmitten	write	wrote	written
Inow	fnowed	fnews	writhe	writhed	writhen

110 nun 1

be taug tle. cien they whi whe thofe

Jig

nigh T pirit

chan tofor

5.2

bich alk. alk its.

in omin land.

I. RULE VII.

A verb must agree with its nominative * in number and perfon; as,

I am, thou art, he is. I place, thou placeft, he places; we place, ye place. I fit. Thou art taught. James walks. A wife man speaks little. A fool will utter all his mind. The ancient inhabitants of Crete enacted laws whereby they were forbidden, on pain of being publicly whipt, ever to inquire of a foreigner who he was, whence he came, or what was his business; and hose who answered fuch questions were deprived of the use of fire and water. The reason they affigned for enacting this law, was, that men, by not interfering with the business of others, might the better attend to their own.

r

ń.

n r

ŧ.

ht

rn l

en en T n

nđ .

2

ns

ight !

ng

then

RUL

There was a man there who had an unclean fpirit.—There were many lights in the upper chamber.—There hath not been fuch a thing heretofore.—It rains. G Contractions

* Every verb, except in the infinitive mode, has a cominative, expressed or understood, which may be found at by asking the question who is? who does? who fufits? what is? what does? what fuffers? and the word which answers the question is the nominative; thus, we walk. Who walk? we. Here we is the nominative and walk the verb, both of the first person plural. The drum eats. What beats? the drum. Here drum is the nomiative and beats the verb of the third person fingular areeing with it. The infinitive mode is sometimes the ominative to a verb; as, to live above envy is felf-comuand. What is felf-command? to live above envy.

74

Contractions fometimes make the parts of verbs difficult to be known; as, I've, I'm, I'll, he'll, I'd, he'd, don't, fhan't, he's, 'tis, what's, that's, there's, where's, &c. for, I have, I am, I will, he will, I would, he would, do not, fhal not, he is, it is (frequently miftaken for its) what is, there is, where is, &c.

2. RULE VIII.

Two or more nouns, a noun and a pronoun, or two pronouns of the fingular number, with the copulative conjunction and between them, require a plural verb; as,

James and John have been in the country. Robert and I have entered into partnership. She and he are always of one opinion. Thou and thy father are both in the fame fault. Conficience and covetoufness are never to be reconciled.

Nouns of multitude may have a verb either fingular or plural; as, the committee is [are] met. The mob is [are] unruly.

. RULE IX.

The fubftantive verb am or be admits a nominative after it; * as,

I am he. Thou art fhe. We are they. It was I who wrote the letters, and it was fhe who carried them. Was it I who faid fo? It was neither he nor I. It was either we or they. It was thou, O Lord, who createdft all things.

4. RULE

1

1 afte

this

my/a eno

bedi

7

1

The

the fure

of eith

man

wit

nou

the

Joh

in r

* Except when it is in the infinitive mode; as, I took it to be him.

4. RULE X.

of 11,

's,

m,

lall

ts)

un, rith

em,

try.

She

thy ence

ei.

are]

n0.

W'25

car.

nel.

Was

LE

1002

An active verb governs the noun or pronoun after it in the acculative * cafe; as,

I love him becaufe he obeys me. I faw him this morning. The genius, feeing me indulge myfelf in melancholy, told me I had dwelt long enough upon this profpect. Teach thy child obedience and he shall blefs thee.

5. RULE XI.

The relative must agree with its antecedent in number and perfon; as,

I who run. Thou who rideft. She who walks. They who labour. This is the woman who wrote the letter, fhe fpells well. He who loweth pleafure fhall be a poor man.

When the relative comes after two words of different perfons, it may agree in perfon with either of them; as,

I am the man who command you; or, I am the man who commands you.

6. RULE XII.

The relative who, when it has no verb agreeing with it, and is not governed by a preposition or noun, fhould be put in the accusative; as,

G 2

Who

* The accufative cafe may be different by turning the nominative and verb into a queftion; the word which anfwers the queftion will be in the accufative; thus, John taught me. Whom did John teach? Anf. me.

76

Who would truft him whom he knows to be a villain ?—What shall be done to the man whom the king delighteth to honour ?—He whom thou lovest is fick.

hou

we

Ch

tin

but

hy

the

the qua

wh

fuf

beł

he

ed The

me

not

7. RULE XIII.

When one verb immediately follows, or depends on another, the latter is put in the infinitive mode, with the preposition to before it; as, good boys love to learn:—except the following verbs, which have others before them without the fign to; bid, dare, feel, hear, let, make, need, fee; as, I bade him come. He dares not do it. I feel it run. We heard him preach. You let it fall. I made him hear me. They need not go. 1 faw her enter.

8. RULE XIV.

The participle present, having the before it, becomes a noun, and requires of after it; as,

The loving of your enemies is the command of God.—When the and of are both omitted, the construction is equally good; thus, Loving your enemies is the command of God.

9. RULE XV.

The nominative cafe ABSOLUTE * is formed by leaving out the adverbs when, while, after, Sc. as, I be-

* This elliptical manner of expression, in which the nominative has no verb agreeing with it, always leaves something to be supplied by the mind.

I being in the way, the Lord led me to the house of my master's brethren. He watching, all the rett went to bed. She reading the letter, all were attentive. About 4000 years after the creation, Augustus being emperor of Rome, Jefus Christ was born.

2

12

U

e.

ii.

18, ng

2;

eel

Il.

170

it,

of

the

our

by as, be-

the

aves

10. RULE XVI.

All unneceffary change of perfon, mode or time, fhould be avoided; as,

God abhors thy hypocrify who heareft fermons but doft not regard them; or, God abhors your hypocrify who hear fermons but do not regard them.

VI. THE ADVERB. * What is an adverb?

A word joined to an adjective, a verb, or another adverb, expressing time, place, circumstance, quality, or manner of fignification.

1. It is joined to a verb, to fhew how, when, where or whether or not, any one is, does or fuffers; as, he works neatly; he reads well, but behaves ill.

2. To an adjective; as, he is now wife, though he was formerly foolifh.

G 3

3. To

* From ad to and verbum a word: Adverbs being joined to verbs, in the manner that adjectives are to nouns. They ferve to limit, enlarge, or otherwife to modify the meaning of the words to which they are joined; but do not make fenfe without a verb expressed or understood.

3. To another adverb; as, he is now very rich, though formerly very poor.

Icla

enc

AB

wel

rily

ting

by mea

as,

lepa

the

mot

Inte

the

as,

ly,

ly,

nou

28, 1

equ:

like

as, "

Aba

A

er w

other

prude

How may adverbs be known from adjettives?

Most of them, joined to nouns, will make nonfense, whereas, adjectives joined to nouns will make fense; thus, a wicked man, makes sense; a wickedly man, nonsense.

Do adverbs admit of comparison?

Adverbs of quality and manner, and fuch as are derived from comparable adjectives, may be compared; as, happily, more happily, moft happily, wifely, more wifely, moft wifely.

Adverbsmay be reduced to the following Claffes. Of PLACE. 1ft. Signifying reft in a place; as, where, here, there. 2d. Motion to, or towards a place; as, whither, hither, thither, whitherward, towards, hitherward, thitherward, upward, downward. 3d. From a place; as, above, below, whence, hence, thence, whitherfoever.

Of TIME. 1ft. Prefent; as, now, to-day. 2d. Paft; as, before, already, yefterday, heretofore, long fince, lately. 3d. Future; as, prefently, immediately, inftantly, by and by, ftraightway, to-morrow, hereafter, henceforth, henceforward, not yet. 4th. Indefinite; as, when, often, oftentimes, feldom, daily, yearly, always, then, ever, never, again. 5th. Continuance of time; as, long, how long, fo long, long ago, a long while, &c.

Of ORDER; as, fecondly, thirdly, fourthly, &c. finally, laftly.

Of NUMBER; as, once, twice, thrice, rarely, feldom, often.

2

11

2

as 30 pes.

as,

ds

errd,

w,

2d.

pre,

tly,

oft-

ene;

ong

hly,

Of

Of QUANTITY; as, much, how much, how great, nough, fufficient, fomewhat, fomething, nothing. Of QUALITY; either abfol. te, or comparative. ABSOLUTE expressing, Ift. Quality fimply; as, well, ill, bravely. 2d. Certainty; as, truly, veniv, certainly, yes, yea, undoubtedly. 3d. Contingence; as, happily, peradventure, perhaps, by chance. 4th. Negation ; as, nay, no, by no means, not at all, in no wife. 5th. Explaining; as, to wit, namely: 6th. Separation; as, apart, leparately, one by one, &c. 7th. Joining together; as, together, generally, univerfally, for the most part. Sth. Indication; as, behold, lo. 9th. Interrogation; as, why? wherefore? how? whether? COMPARATIVE. Ift. Signifying excels; as, very much, too much, exceedingly, extremely, altogether, wholly, more bravely, most bravely, &c. 2d. Defect; as, almost, little, little enough, very little, leaft of all. 3d. Preference; as, rather, chiefly, especially. 4th. Likeness and equality; as, fo, as, as if, even as, enough, in like manner. 5th. Unlikeness and inequality; as, otherwife, elfe, much more, much lefs. 6th. Abatement ; as, by degrees, fcarcely. 7th. Exclusion; as, only.

Adverbs generally express a fentiment in fewer words, or, in a shorter manner than could be otherwife done; as, we fay, such a one alled prudently, instead of faying, be alled with prudence, dence, or in a prudent manner; be added foolifbly, inftead of faying, be added like a fool.

Adverbs of quality are mostly formed from adjectives by adding ly thereto; as, wifely, fool. ifhly, inconfiftently, facetiously.

Adverbs may be derived from almost any other part of speech, even from proper names; for, we can fay Socratically, instead of faying, after the manner of Socrates; &c.

Adjectives are often very improperly used for adverbs, both in discourse and writing; as, exceeding great, prodigious strong, very pretty—for, exceedingly great, prodigiously strong, very prettily, &c.

. RULE XVII.

The comparative adverbs as and than require a nominative after them, unlefs they be followed by a preposition or an adive verb; as,

He is as good as fhe (not as her). She is younger than I (not than me.) My uncle loves him better than me; that is, than he loves me. She is kinder to him than me; that is, than fhe is to me.

. RULE XVIII.

Two negatives make an affirmative; * as, I cannot do nothing. I cannot drink none.

cannot

can

ing

tion

as i drin

ing

whi

roin

lerd

roin

o-n lent

erb

U

U

H

H

7

T

W

rom

ain : rom

hat

or th

N

I

* Except the adverb no, when repeated, or prefixed to not, which implies the ftrongeft denial; as, He will not let you go, no, not with a mighty hand. Will you grant my requeft? no, no, I will not. No, not the bow which fo adorns the fkies. WALLER.

cannot give no more for it. I have not been doing nothing to-day. It is not impossible. Nor did we get no hurt by Adam's fall.

V,

m er

3%

he

for

ed-

or,

ily,

ire

ved

e is oves

me.

the

I

nnot

fixed

and.

LER.

In thefe, and the like, fentences the two negations contradict each other, and make it the fame as if we would fay, I can do fomething. I can drink. I can give more for it. I have been doing fomething. It is poffible.

Where, here and there are frequently used for whither, hither and thither; as, where are you going? for, whither go ye?—He came here yefterday; for, he came hither yesterday.—I am going there to-morrow; for, I am going thither to morrow.—These improprieties will be evitent by attending to the fignification of the adverbs: thus,

Where, fignifies in which, or what place. Whither,—to which, or what place. Here,—in this place. Hither,—to, or towards this place. There,—in that place. Thither,—to, or towards that place.

We frequently both hear and fee from whence, rom hence, and from thence; though they conain an evident repetition; thus, from whence, is rom from what place. From thence, from from hat place. From hence, from from this place, or thing.

Never is also frequently used for ever, though their their fignifications be directly opposite; as, He will not comply though I should give him never fo much; for,—ever fo much.

ve

ad

th

wh

of

cxi

foll

feri

1

A

bed

is g beti

to fr

Forfa

Fe

N

mift:

over.

do d

B

The particular uses and arrangement of adverbs will be best learned, by attending carefully to the manner in which they are used, by the best English Authors.

VII. THE PREPOSITION. * What is a Preposition?

A particle, joined to the other parts of speech, to shew their situation, relation, or reference to one mother; as,

Now fend men to Joppa, and call for one Simon, whofe fir-name is Peter. He lodgeth with one Simon, a tanner, whofe houfe is by the fea fide.

How may prepositions be known from other words?

By placing a pronoun in the accufative after them, with which they will make fenfe; as, from us, to me, by them.

How many kinds of prepositions are there? Two: feparable and infeparable.

Which are the separable prepositions?

They are mostly contained in the following lift.

Between, befides, above, beneath, about, Behind, beyond, amongft, within, without, After, towards, againft, nigh, at, upon, Before, until, with, into, from, of, on.

* From præ before, and pono to place: prepofitions being generally placed before the nouns and pronouns with which they are connected.

Prepofitions are frequently fubjoined to verbs, in which cafe they affume the nature of adverbs, and confiderably affect the meaning of the verb; as, to give out, to take in, to fall on.

Which are the inseparable prepositions?

Certain particles combined with other words, which either vary, or quite reverfe the meaning of the radical word; but which have no feparate existence in our language.

RULE XIX.

A preposition governs the noun or pronoun following it, in one of the oblique cases,—as deferibed and exemplified pages 41, 42 and 43.

Prepofitions fland in almost all positions; fo

25

83

Observations on PREPOSITIONS in Composition.

A is used, but improperly, for in or on; as, he lies abed; he is gone a shore; instead of, he lies in bed; he is gone on shore.

Be is used to fignify about; as, bestir, bespatter, befprinkle. It fignifies also by or nigb; as, beside; in; as, betimes, or, in time; for, or before; as, to bespeak, or, to speak for.

For, is negative or privative; as, forbid, bid it not; forfake, feek it no more.

Fore; implies prefcience; as, forefee, foretel, forwarn. Mis is ufed to point out error or defect; as, mildeed, miltake, mifufe, misfortune, miltruft, milconstruction.

Over denotes eminence or fuperiority; as, overcome, over-rule; or, excefs; as, over-faft, overjoy, overpower. Out denotes excellency, excefs, or fuperiority; as, outdo out-go, out-run, out-wit.

ut,

lift.

1,

0

n,

DC

e. 1s?

ter om

tions

itions nouns

as to express the relation of one word to ano. ther, the instrument with which, or the manner

how

ho

the ina

ille

clof

rage

den I

terli

terta

bis

vade

fterit

Po

Pr

Pre

hatur

Re.

ppol

Ret

ards

Sub

o-tak

Sub

bge,

Sup

nt, si

erive

Tra

In

08

Pe

1

1

E

Un implies negation; as, unworthy, not worthy; unpleafant, unconcerned, unwilling, unavailing.

When un is joined to a verb, it undoes what has been already done; as, to unfay, to recant; to undo, to deflroy what has been done.

With denotes refiftance or privation; as, withstand, to ftand against, withdraw, to take away.

All these are English prepositions.

84

Many Latin prepositions, joined with other words, have become English words through custom; as,

Ab, or abs, which fignifies feparation or parting; as, abstain, to refrain from; absolve, to clear, or free from; abdicate, to withdraw.

Ad--at, or to; as, adhere, clofe to; adjacent, near. Ante--before; as, antecedent, a word going before; to antedate, to date before, antepenult, the laft but two.

Circum,--about; as, circumambient, to lie round about; circumvallation, ditching about.

Con, fometimes written Co, Col, or Com, fignifies together, with; as, convocation, a calling or meeting together; co-operate, to labour together; colloquy, a talking together; commerce, a trading together.

Contra-against; as, contradict; to gainfay, or speak against: from this preposition comes counter, which fignifies opposition; as, to counteract, countermand.

Dis-privation or negation, and gives the word it is compounded with, a fignification contrary to its original meaning; as, difagree, diftruft, difapprove, difengage.

E, or ex-out, out of, or off; as, to evade, to put of; to exclude, to flut out.

Extra-Jeyond, or over and above; as, extravagant, extraneous, extraordinary, extrajudicial.

how an action is faid to be done, &c. But, there feems to be a propriety in placing the preн polition

T

W

é

1.

en l

le.

te

rds,

29,

om;

r.

ore: .077

1 2-s tooge-

taik-

ak a-igni-

it 19

ginal

age.

t of;

In has often a negative fignification; as, inoffenfive, inactive, inaccurate, inhumane, incomprehenfible.

N, in in, is often changed into l, m, r; as, illiberal, illegal, immodeft, immortal, irreligious, irrational. In denotes that one thing is put into another; as, inclofe, infufe, inrol, impale, import, imprefs. En is used in words of French original; as, enrich, enrage, encourage, &c. It never fignifies privation, but denotes the disposition, or impression received.

Inter fignifies between; as, intersperse, intercept, interline, intervene, interval, interpofe, interpolation.

In French words enter is used instead of inter; as, entertain, enterlace, enterprize, enterparlance.

Ob--opposition, or against; as, obstacle: in many words is changed into p; as, oppose, opprobrious, &c.

Per fignifies by, or through; as, perfect, perforate, pervade, permanent, perpendicular.

Post-after; as, posticript, postpone, posthumous, poterity, postexistence, post-haste, post-date.

Pre--before; as, prefuppole, premeditate, pre-exist. Preter-befides, or against; as, preter-natural, against lature, or contrary to it; pretermiffion.

Re--again; as, to repeat, relapfe, reiterate. Alfo--pposition; as, repulse, beat back; reprove, speak against. Retro-backwards; as, retrospective, looking backvards; retrograde, retroceffion, retrogreffion.

Sub--under; as, to fubscribe, to write under; subtract, o take from ; fubfift, to ftand under ; fubaltern.

Subter has nearly the fame fignification; as, fubterge, a place to flee under; fubtend.

Super fignifies above; as, fupereminent, fuperabundnt, superscription. Super is changed into fur in words igant, erived from the French; as, furface, furplus, furrender. Trans----over or beyond ; as, transfer, transport, polition immediately before the word which it governs, thus;

86

"As I was fitting in my Haram, with my lamp burning before me, computing the products of my merchandife, and exulting in the increase of my wealth; I fell into a deep fleep, and the hand of him who dwells in the third heaven was upon me.—I was lifted from the ground, and transported, with aftonishing rapidity, through the air." Apv.

VIII.

nu

ſe

tł

th

fu

be po

or

WE

af

car

cothe

but 28 join transmigration. It also denotes the change of one thing into another; as, transform, transfigure, transmutation.

There are also Greek prepositions used in composing English words; as, a or an which fignifies not; as, anonymous, without name; anarchy, without government.

Ampbi fignifies both or two; as, amphibious, creatures which can live on either land or water; amphibology, a fpeech of an uncertain or doubtful meaning.

Anti-against, or contrary; as, antichrist, against or an enemy to Christ; antinomian, against the law, anticonvulsive, antipodes, antifebrile, antidote.

Hyper--over and above; as, hypercritic, a critic of better talents than another, or captious beyond measure; hyperbolic, exaggeration; hypermeter.

Hypo--under; as, hypocrite, one under a mask; hypogeum, under the earth, hypothetical, under conditions.

Meta--beyond; or the changing of one thing into another; as, metaphor, metamorphofis, metaphyfical.

Peri-about; as, periphrafis, fpeaking in a round about way; peripatetic, one who walks about; perimeter.

Syn--with, or together; as, fynod, a meeting together, or a convocation; fynthetic, compounding things together:----m is fometines fubfituted in place of m; 23, fympathy, mutual feeling; fymphony, harmony of found-

THE CONJUNCTION. * VIII.

What is a conjunction ?

ti

Y

18 fe

le

as

nd

re.

I.

ng

on.

ing

no-

nt. ires

gy,

- an

con-

c of

are;

vpoons.

ano-

bout

oge-; 23,

nind.

. ther,

A part of fpeech which ferves to unite two or more fentences, and to fhew their dependence upon one another.

How may conjunctions be known from other words?

In general, words which unite two or more fentences into one are conjunctions.

How many forts of conjunctions are there?

There are many, but the most confiderable of them are,

I. COPULATIVE; as, and, which does no more than barely join fentences, together; as,

James is a lawyer and John a furgeon .- The fun fhines and the fky is clear.

II. CASUAL OF CONTINUATIVE; as, for, that, because, therefore, hence, thence, &c. which point out the relation between caufes and effects, or join fuch as have effential coincidence; thus, we cannot fay, James is a lawyer becaule John is a furgeon; but we can fay, the fky is clear becaufe the fun fhines.

The reason is, with respect to the first, the co-incidence is merely accidental; with refpect to the laft, it is effential, and founded in nature. -

III. DISJUNCTIVE, which join the fentence but disjoin the fenfe. These are either fimple, as when we fay, it is either day or night; or ad-H 2 verfative

* From con with, and jungo to join : its use being to join fentiences.

verfative, marking opposition; as, it is not day but night. For we are but of yesterday.

IV. CONDITIONAL; as, if, if not, perhaps, expressing a supposition or doubt; as, If he come, he will oblige me; if not, I cannot help it.

V. ORDINATIVE; as, however, thereafter, moreover, finally.

VI. CONCESSIVE; as, though, although, albeit.

Some words are adverbs, prepofitions, or conjunctions, according as they are taken in different views,

Give a lift of the conjunctions.

Except, perhaps, likewife, alfo, Moreover, nor, whereas, although, But, howfoever, fo that, or, Yet, otherwife, unlefs, wherefore, For, neither, if, therefore, becaufe, Save, either, whether, fince, and, as.

I. RULE XX.

The conjunctions and, or and nor, generally connect verbs in the fame time and mode; and nouns and pronouns in the fame cafe; as,

He fings and plays well. She and he were taught in one fchool. I taught him and her, and they were diligent fcholars. You or I muft go. Neither he nor fhe can attend.

2. RULE XXI.

Or follows whether and either, in a sentence, and nor follows not and neither; as,

Whether

01 tv

in

in

B

T

A

A

So

So

No

I

fior

con

that of t

of lang

tion feel

the

coug

title

Whether do you ride or walk?—Either the one or the other tells a falfehood.—Not once nor twice.—Neither the one nor the other.

Conjunctions are often used distributively, or in pairs, to connect the subsequent and preceding members of a sentence; as,

Both—and: both old and young must die. Tho'—yet: tho' you fay it, yet I will not be-As—as: as white as fnow. (lieve it. As—fo: as the ftars, fo fhall thy feed be. So—as: you are not fo old as he is. So—that: it is fo bad that I cannot use it. Not only—but: not only once but always.

IX. THE INTERJECTION. *

What is an interjection ?

V

s,

e

t.

r,

t.

n.

T-

liv

ind

ere ier,

nuft

nce,

ther

A part of speech denoting some sudden paftion or emotion of the mind.

H₃

INTERJECTIONS

8c

* From inter between, and jacio to throw.---It is a compendious way of expressing a sentence, in one word; that the shortness of the phrase may fuit the suddenness of the emotion or passion expressed by it.

"The dominion of fpeech is founded on the downfal of interjections. Without the artful contrivan e of language, mankind would have nothing but interjections, with which to communicate, orally, any of their feelings. The neighing of a horfe, the lowing of a cow, the barking of a dog, the purring of a cat, fneexing, coughing, fbrieking, groaning, and every other involuntary convultion, with oral found, have almost as good a title to be called parts of fpeech as interjections have."

J. H. TOOKE.

we

ful

fro

rule

loft,

ling

R

fron

loui

mer

bur

ble,

nou

with

are eart

5.

any

addin

6.

4

3

2 add

4 run

INTERJECTIONS express

- 1. Joy; as, hey! brave!
- 2. Grief; as, ah ! alas ! woes me ! alack !
- 3. Wonder; as, O ftrange!
- 4. Praife; as, well done! O brave! very well!
- 5. Averfion; as, away! begone! fy! tufh! pifh! pfhaw! foh! avaunt! pugh!
- 6. Laughter; as, ha, ha, he!
- 7. Surprize ; as, hah! heyday! what! ftrange!
- 8. Incitement to attention ; as, hark ! lo! fee! hallo !
- 9. Defire of filence ; as, hush ! peace ! filence!
- 10. Languor; as, heigh ho!
- 11. Deliberation ; as, hum !
- 12. Exultation; as, heigh! huzza!
- 13. Salutation ; as, hail! all hail!
- 14. Pain; as, O! Oh!
- 15. Wishing ; as, O! O that !
- 16. Exclaiming; as, O!

Nouns are fometimes ufed for interjections; as, O fhame! with a mifchief! O wretched! 0 the villany!

Interjections co-incide with no other part of fpeech; but are either uttered alone, or thrown into a fentence without altering its form: they do not fo much indicate thought as feeling.

OF DERIVATION.

How many forts of derivatives are among words purely English?

Four: viz. 1. Adjectives from nouns: as, wealth, wealth, wealthy; health, healthy; fruit, fruitful. 2. Nouns from adjectives; as, fruitful, fruitfulnefs; finful, finfulnefs, fenfible, fenfibility.

3. Verbs from both nouns and adjectives; as, from a fifb, comes to fifb; from a rule, comes to rule; from black, to blacken; hard, to harden; foft, to foften; flarp, to flarpen; fweet, to fweeten. 4. Nouns from verbs; as, from to run, comes runner, from to love, comes lover; dance, doncer; fing, finger; play, player; fit, fitter; trifle, trifler.

RULES concerning the derivation of Words.

1. Adjectives fignifying plenty, are formed from nouns by adding y; as, health, healthy; loufe, loufy; filth, filtby; wealth, wealthy.

2. Adjectives fignifying fulnefs, are formed by adding -ful or -fome to nouns; as, fin, finful; mercy, merciful; joy, joyful; plenty, plentiful; burden, burdenfome; whole, wholefome; trouble, troublefome; delight-ful, -fome.

3. Adjectives fignifying want, are formed from nouns by adding -lefs; as, worth, worthlefs; wit, withefs; care, carelefs; ufe, ufelefs.

4. Adjectives fignifying likeness or fimilitude, are formed from nouns by adding -ly; as, earth, earthly; father, fatherly; heaven, heavenly:

5. Adjectives fignifying the materials of which any thing is made, are formed from nouns by adding -en; as, earth, earthen; oak, oaken; afh, afhen; birch, birchen; filk, filken.

6. Adjoctives which diminish the quality of

as,

ords

e!

e!

e!

ns;

0

t of

own

hey

nt, a vow

be,

our,

and 2 ty,

opy

abe,

me,

ived

conf

s, c

rebl

N

N

hron

inal

mpe

ive,

M

rom

fnc

rom

nt,

3.

any thing, are formed from other adjectives by adding -i/b; as, black, blackish; red, reddifh; fweet, fweetish; white, whitish; soft, softish.

When -if is added to a noun, the adjective formed therefrom denotes likenefs; as, child, childifh; monk, monkifh; thief, thievifh.

Diminutive * names fometimes end in -kin and ock; as, lamb, lambkin, a young lamb; pipe, pipekin; hill, hillock, &c. Sometimes in -ing; as, goofe, gofling; or in -rel; zs, cock, cockrel; pike, pikerel, &s.

7. Names ending in -fhip, -rick and -wick, denote office, flate, or condition; as, kingfhip, fellowfhip, lordfhip, bifhoprick, bailywick, &c.

Names ending in -bead, or -bood, point out the condition, flate, or quality; also the place in which power is exercised; as, thraldom, freedom, dukedom, earldom, kingdom.

Abstract nouns are derived from adjectives and verbs, by the addition of th and nefs.

1. From adjectives; as, broad, breadth; long, length; ftrong, ftrength; deep, depth; true, truth; dear, dearth; warm, warmth; white, whitenefs; hard, hardnefs; fweet, fweetnefs.

2. From verbs; as, growth, from to grow; flealth, from to fleal; birth, from to bear, &c.

What English words are derived from words in other languages?

1. English words ending in ion, ty, ence, or cy,

* From Diminutivus, or Diminuere, to leffen, or make a thing lefs.

nt, al, id, ude, ary or ory (n, r or t, between two vowels) able, ate, att, cede, cle, ett, ere, cefs, fy, be, id, ide, ile, ine, ign, ife, ifs, it, ive, nfe, ofe, pur, ous, pel, uE, uce, uge, ume, une, ure, ufe, ute, and x, are generally derived from the Latin.

by

h;

ive

ild,

kin

pe, ngi

rel;

de. fel-1

out e in

om,

and

ong,

rue, aite,

. ow;

c.

r cy,

nt, n, or

2. Words ending in cal, ic, is, i/m, ogue, dy, ty, my, ny, phy, ancy, afm, after, ax, cele, chy, ropy, etry, gram, graph, iad, iac, iaft, ics, ift, ize, abe, lage, meter, oce, ope, ophe, oides, oid, ole, me, oma, ory, ox, phor, pfe, fy, yele, &c. are derived from the Greek.

3. Words having a diphthong, between two confonants, are generally derived from the French; s, chaile, tour, fuit, joint, courage, rejoice, rout. Words ending in the diphthong oy, or the reble vowels ieu, eau, are generally of French original; as, joy, adieu, lieu, eau, beau, &c.

Words ending in ible, ment, ive, come to us brough the medium of the French, and are oriinally derived from the Latin; as, corruptible, mperceptible, amendment, commandment, capive, corrofive.

Many other rules have been given, by Gramnarians, concerning English words borrowed rom other languages; but, as these rules are of ittle importance to mere English Scholars, and is in of none, to perfons who understand the languages rom which the words are derived, they are opitted here for the fake of brevity. OF

Th

tfe

ith

nd

1

C

rtij

olac

pici

ugl

U

T

* That

hat'

wo p

The : redic

fa

alled

umft

irtue

onfen

The

1

OF THE CHOICE AND ORDER OF WORDS.

What is meant by a proper choice of words?

Words, which, in their common acceptation, are beft fuited to express the ideas intended to be communicated by them. *

What is meant by the order of words?

Arranging them in periods or fentences, fo a to express the fignification intended by them.

What is a period, or fentence?

"A combination of words fo arranged as to "express a complete thought," and is either fimple or compound.

What is a fimple Sentence ?

That which has but one finite verb in it; 25,

* This rule is frequently transgreffed by perfons, u ing words or phrafes which they do not underftand;by a fludied affectation of fingularity ;--- by using word which have a meaning either doubtful, or different from what is intended; or by using fuch words as have--meaning at all.

We often hear of a seditious MAN, for a judiciou MAN; a confectious, for an infectious DISEASE; ingeniou MAN; a contectious, for an infectious DISEASE; ingenior liture for ingenuous, lethargy for liturgy, leaft for left, with he pri-many others, equally mifapplied, by perfons who pick use of words without attending to their meaning; and, as then ince-are no blunders more frequent, nor more ridiculous, that iffere those made by a mifapplication, or an improper choic is or of words, perfons, who defire to speak or write correct of I ly, ought to be at great pains, in acquiring such a free of words as will enable them to express their thought r, C, in the cleareft and most concide manner. in the clearest and most concise manner.

The fun fhines. The good man loves virtue for tfelf.

What is a compound fentence?

R

on,

be 28 is to

the

; 25, The

C---00

.

That which has two or more finite verbs in it. either expressed or understood; as, The fun shines. nd the fky is clear.

In subat order ought words to be arranged? +

Order, in general, is divided into natural and rtificial, but no exact rules have been given for lacing all the words in a fentence; only the perpicuity, beauty and energy of the expression ught chiefly to be regarded.

What is meant by natural order?

That which places the words of a fentence, ORC

* In every fentence fomething is faid of fomething. that of which fomething is faid, is called the fubject, and nd;- wo parts may of themfelves confitute a fentence; thus, word the Sun fhines; here Sun is the fullifier t from redicate : but befides thefe, which are the effential parts f a fentence, there are commonly fome other words, alled the accidental part, denoting fome quality or cirdicion umftance belonging to them: thus, The good man loves . renion itue for itfelf. Here man is the fubject or agent, lowes with he predicate or attribute affirmed of him, and virtue nick u he object upon which his love terminates. Every fen-s then ince or period flould contain one entire thought, and is, the inferent thoughts flould be arranged in different fenten-

qu

fu

up

be

be mi

fix

gr

of fal

af

wi

im

me

0

WOI

cha

18 .0

hav

the ativ

afte

whi

juri dift

4.

one after another, in the fame order with the conceptions of our minds; thus,

1. The Antecedent naturally precedes the Relative; as, Men are apt to forgive in themfelves, what they blame in others.

2. In a conditional fentence, the conjunctive member naturally flands first; as, If you would avoid what is base, fuffer not folly to lay hold on your heart.

3. That member which expresses the effect of an action comes naturally last; as, Though you offer ever fo good reasons you will not prevail upon [with] him.

4. The like may be faid with regard to the time of performing actions; as, The Roman cloquence foon declined, when Cicero was dead.

5. The effect, being naturally first observed, leads to the cause; as, All the pleasures of life must be uncertain, fince life itself is not secure.

What is meant by artificial order?

Artificial order is when words are fo arranged as to render them most agreeable to the ear; but fo as the fenfe may not be thereby obfcured : as, in the examples already given, we may fay,

1. What men blame in others, they are apt to forgive in themfelves.

2. Suffer not folly to lay hold on your heart, if you would avoid what is bafe.

3. You will not prevail with him, though you offer ever fo good reafons.

4. When Cicero was dead, the Roman eloquence foon declined.

e

.

s, ld

ld.

of

DU

ail

he

0-

d, ife

.

ed

ut

as,

to rt,

OU

4.

5. Since life itself is not secure, all its pleafures must be uncertain.

The variety of inverfions of a fentence depends upon the number of its members; thus, two members may be combined only two ways; three may be combined fix ways; four, twenty four; five admit of one hundred and twenty different ways; fo fix would admit of no lefs than 720. A progreffion thus extenfible to infinity, though many of them would express ambiguity, nonfense or falsehood; but in general, that order of words in a fentence or period, is the most agreeable, where, without obscuring the fense, the most important images, the most fonorous words, and the longest members bring up the rear.

OF FIGURATIVE LANGUAGE. What is meant by figurative language? A form of fpeech different from the ordinary way

 When a deficiency, redundancy or repetition of words is ufed, it is called fimply a figure; when a word is changed from an original to a borrowed fignification, it is called a trope. The figurative fenfe flould always have a relation to the proper, and the more intimate the relation is, the figure is the more beautiful.---Figurative language, though introduced by neceffity, came afterwards to be cultivated for ornament, like clothes which, though introduced as a protection from the injuries of the weather, came afterwards to be worn for diffinction and decoration.

fyl

mo

ope

dor

cor nur

que

put

1 I

fion

plie

the difag

idea

25 1

derfl

man

Ilo

Hei

(ref]

hould

ebfcu

The

A

1

108

way of expreffing the fame meaning. It may confift of a deficiency, a redundancy, or a repetition of words ;- or, the words may be changed from their ordinary meaning to a borrowed one, and then employed agreeably to this change.

Which are the ordinary figures in language? A few of them are, Personification, Ellipsi, Repetition, Antithefis, Gradation, Hyperbole, Irony, Simile, Metaphor, Allegory, by a judicious application of which, a peculiar beauty and energy is given to language ; but, being its riches, they fhould be properly managed, and not lavished indifcreetly.

PERSONIFICATION. I. What is personification ?

It is that figure of speech whereby we afcribe life and fex to inanimate objects ; as,

First in bis east the glorious lamp was feen, Regent of day, and all the horizon round Invefted with bright rays; jocund to run His longitude thro' heav'n's high road; the grey Dawn, and the pleiades before him danc'd, Shedding fweet influence. Lefs bright the moon, But oppofite, in levell'd weft was fet His mirror, with full face borrowing her light From him, for other light she needed none.

Lo, in the vale of years, beneath, A grifly troop are feen, The painful family of Death More hideous than their queen.

The war hath introduced abundance of polyiyllables, which will not be able to live many more campaigns. Speculations, remonitrances, operations, preliminaries, delegates, ambaffadors, plenipotentiaries, manœuvres, palifades, communication, circumvallation, battalions, as numerous as they are, if they attack us too frequently, in our coffee-houfes, we fhall certainly put them to flight and cut off the rear.

II. ELLIPSIS.

What is meant by Ellipfis?

d

2,

S,

e, 11-

ty

nd

be rey

on,

The

Ellipfis, as applied to grammar, is the omiffion of fome word, or words, which must be fupplied either to complete the fenfe, or make out the grammatical confiruction.

The principal defign of this figure is to avoid, difagreeable repititions, as well as to express our ideas in as few words, and as pleafing a manner as poffible; therefore, Whatever is equally underflood, without being expressed, may be omitted; as,

A learned (man, a) wife (man) and (a) good man.——I love (them) and (I) honour them. I love the one as well as (I love) the other.—— He is a great (man) and (a) good man in one (refpect) and (in) all refpects.——All this I 2 (Character)

 In the application of this Figure, great care hould be taken to avoid ambiguity; and, when ever it bicures the fenfe, it ought by no means to be admitted.

(character) is true, and more (than all this character is true).

Thus, at their fhady lodge arriv'd, both flood, Both turn'd, and under open fky ador'd (heaven The God that made both fky, air, earth, and Which they beheld, the moon's refplendent globe And flarry pole: Thou also mad'fb the night, Maker omnipotent, and thou the day.

III. REPETITION.

What is repetition ?

It is that figure which gracefully uses either the fame word oftener than once, or the fame fense in different words; as,

Naked came I out of my mother's womb, and naked fhall I return thither; the Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away, bleffed be the name of the Lord.

To every thing there is a feafon, and a time to every purpofe under heaven.

The Lord he is the God, the Lord he is the God.

What riches give us let us then inquire,

Meat, fire and clothes, what more? meat, clothu and fire.

That be from thee far ; That far be from thee, Father, who art judge Of all things made, and judgeft only right.

Paint,

P

B

N

A

E

F

FI

as

ftr

bu

ha

Ver

Tł

To

 Repetition, when the fubject does not require it, is 25 tedious as otherwife it is delightful.

ENGLISH GRAMMAR. 10F

Paint, ruffles, lace were call'd to eafe his pain; But ruffles, lace and paint were all in vain.

The ruling paffion, be it what it will, The ruling paffion conquers reason ftill.

Now hanging o'er the fpring his drooping head, With a fad figh, thefe dying words he faid; Ab! boy, belov'd in vain! through all the plain Echo refounds, AH! BOY, BELOV'D IN VAIN! Farewel, he cries; and with that word he dy'd; FAREWEL, the miferable nymph replied.

IV. ANTITHESIS.

What is antithefis ?

.

n

nd

e

her

and

and

ame

time

God.

other

e

aint,

ire it,

Placing one object in opposition to another, fo as to render the thoughts or expressions more strikingly distinct; as,

The full foul lotheth the honey-comb; but to the hungry foul, every bitter thing is fweet.

Though they dig into bell, thence fhall mine hand take them; though they climb up to heaven thence will I bring them down.

But then thou muft outlive (change Thy youth, thy ftrength, thy beauty, which will To wither'd, weak and grey.

All difcord, harmony not understood, All partial EVIL, universal GOOD.

3

Love;

Love, hope and joy, fair PLEASURE's fmiling train, Hate, fear and grief, the family of PAIN; Thefe, mixt with art, and to due bounds confin'd, Make, and maintain the balance of the mind.

60

ST

no

An

An

An

Son

An

Sha

Stil

Wi

The

Wi

The

She

Wh

For

D

T

mag

whic

dired

V. GRADATION.

What is gradation, or climax ?

Placing the members of a fentence in a regular fcale, afcending or defcending from each other: as,

Moreover, whom he did predefinate, them he alfo called; and whom he called, them he alfo juftified; and whom he juftified, them he alfo glorified.

How then shall they call on him in whom they have not BELIEVED? and how shall they believe on him of whom they have not HEARD? and how shall they bear without a PREACHER? and how shall they preach except they be fent?

After we have practifed good works a while they become eafy; and, when they are eafy, we begin to take pleafure in them; and, when they pleafe us, we do them frequently; and, by frequency of acts, a thing grows into a habit; and a confirmed habit is a kind of fecond nature; and, fo far as any thing is natural, fo far it is neceffary, and we can hardly do otherwife; nay, we do it many times when we do not think of it. There

 The word which ends the first member of the period commonly begins the fecond, and fo on, till the whole be finished.

There is no enjoyment of property without GOVERNMENT, no government without a MAGI-STRATE, no magifirate without OBEDIENCE, and no obedience where every one acts as he pleafes.

Sweet harmonift ! and beautiful as fweet ! And young as beautiful ! and foft as young ! And gay as foft ! and innocent as gay ! And bappy (if aught happy here) as good ! Song, beauty, youth, love, virtue, joy !—her own ; And fhe was mine ; and I was—was most bleft.

The queen, recover'd, rears her humid eyes, And firft her bufband on the poop efpies, Shaking his hand, at diftance on the main; She took the fign, and fhook her hand again; Still as the ground recedes contracts her view With fharpen'd fight, till fhe no longer knew The much lov'd face; that comfort loft fupplies. With lefs, and with the gally feeds her eyes: The gally borne from view, by rifing gales, She follow'd with her fight the flying fails: When even the flying fails were feen no more, Forfaken of all fight, fhe left the fhore.

VI. HYPERBOLE.

What is a hyperbole?

r

7

e

0

y

n

11

11

le

ve

ey

2-nd e;

is

y,

it.

re

he

That figure of fpeech by which objects are magnified or diminished beyond the truth; as,

My

 A Hyperbole has been compared to a bow-firing, which relaxes by over firaining, and produces an effect directly contrary to that which was intended.

My horfe is fwifter than the wind; yours is flower than a tortoife.

Hoft against hoft with shadowy squadrons drew, The sounding darts in iron tempests flew; With streaming blood the slippery fields were dy'd, And slaughter'd heroes swell the dreadful tide.

His fparkling eyes, replete with ireful fire, More dazzled and drove back his enemies Than mid-day fun.

Thou art like the fnow upon the heath:-Thy arms like two white pillars in the hall of the mighty Fingal.

VII. I R O N Y.

What is Irony?

104

That which intends the reverse of what it fays, and under the mask of praise conceals the keenest fatire; as,

Cry aloud : for he is a god, either he is talking, or he is purfuing, or he is on a journey, or peradventure he fleepeth, and must be awaked.

That the facred perfon of a fenator's foot-man fhould be free from arreft, although he undoes the poor ale-wife, by running on fcores, is a circumftance of equal wifdom and juffice, to avoid

 In Ironical expression, fomething should always appear, in the words or gesture, to shew that the person is not in carnest. avo

up for the pla the ma pri fing fior fitt ly ier ed on fuc dar. tim pur

F

1

7 acco

the S foul

avoid the great evil of his mafter's lady wanting of liveries behind the coach. Swift.

By these methods, in a few weeks, there starts up many a writer, capable of managing the profoundeft, and most universal subjects. For, what though his head be empty, provided his common place book be full ! and, if you will bate him but the circumftances of method, and ftyle, and grammar, and invention; allow him but the common privileges of transcribing from others, and digreffing from himfelf, as often as he shall fee occafion ; he will defire no more ingredients towards fitting up a treatife that shall make a very comely figure on a bookfeller's shelf, there to be preferved neat and clean, for a long eternity, adorned with the heraldry of its title, fairly inferibed on a label; never to be thumbed or greafed by fudents, nor bound to everlasting chains of darknefs in a library; but, when the fulnefs of time is come, fhall happily undergo the trial of purgatory in order to afcend the fky. 10.

VIII. SIMILE.

What is a fimile?

15

N,

d,

hy

the

tys,

en-

alk-

or d.

man

does

is a

, to void

ways

The comparing of one object to another, on account of fome fimilar qualities; as,

The righteous shall be like a tree planted by the waterfide.

Sorrow, like a cloud on the fun, fhades the foul of Cleffammor.

Black

Ł

the .

foes graf

B

T

Whi

Omi

Is b

On i And

Or 1

U

S

difco

* when

in al

if the ceede

ative for re

n th

ter, a afhic

pols

ng o nille

h the mifer

Blæck it flood as night, Fierce, as ten furies, terrible as hell, And fhook a dreadful dart.

106

-----On t'other fide, Incens'd with indignation, Satan flood Unterrified, and like a comet burn'd, That fires the length of Ophiuchus huge In th' artic fky, and from his horrid hair Shakes peftilence and war.

When reafon, like the fkilful charioteer, Can break the fiery paffions to the bit, And, fpite of their licentious fallies, keep The radiant tract of glory,—paffions then Are aids and ornaments.

As we perceive the fhadow upon the fun-dial, but difcern not its progreffion; and as the fhrub, or grafs appears in time to be grown, but is feen by none to grow; fo alfo the proficiency of our wits, advancing by fmall improvements, is perceived only after fome diffance of time.

IX. METAPHOR. *

What is a metaphor?

The name of one object put for another, on account of fome fimilar qualities; as,

The righteous shall be a tree planted by the waterfide.

* A fimile may be turned into a metaphor by taking away the comparing particle; thus, The righteous is like a tree, &c. is a fimile; The righteous is a tree, &c. metaphor.

In peace, thou art the gale of fpring; in war, the mountain florm.

Be thou a fiream of many tides against the foes of thy people; but the gale which moves the grass, to those who ask thine aid.

There is a tide in the affairs of men, Which, taken at the flood, leads one to fortune; Omitted, all the voyage of their life Is bound in fballows and in miferies. On fuch a full fea we are now affoat; And we must take the current when it ferves, Or lofe our ventures.

X. ALLEGORY. *

What is an allegory?

ıl,

b, en

ur

-1:

on

he

ing

sis

Stc.

Several metaphors connected in a continued difcourfe; as, Thou

* "Nothing gives greater pleasure than this figure, when the representative subject bears a strong analogy, in all its circumstances, to that which is represented;" if the one be not mistaken for the other.

---But "The first and grand mistakes in religion proceeded from taking literally what was only meant figuatively, or emblematically:-----It was taking fymbols for realities that made men imagine a purifying quality in the blood of beafts:-----It was laying hold of the letter, and letting the meaning flip, that induced men to fatrifice their first born---and at last made human facrifice afhionable.-----In flort, looking at the external fymbols and letter, and not at the apparent certain meaning of both, drove the Heathen to all their follies, and milled and afterwards hardened and confirmed the Jews in those absurdities under which they are ridiculous and milerable to this day."

PRESIDENT FORBES' Thoughts concerning Religion.

Thou hast brought a vine out of Egypt: thou hast cast out the heathen and planted it: thou didst cause it to take deep root and it filled the land, &c. Pfalm 80.

fe

fa

10 re

ful

pla

the

lian

rul

ten

ner

Gr

pen

cou vari pari

for t

retur

lette

the j

extra

the a

" the

" und

of Ce

king .

In

My Well-beloved hath a vineyard in a very fruitful hill. He fenced it, gathered out the ftones thereof, planted it with the choiceft vine, built a tower in the midft of it, and alfo made a wine-prefs therein : he looked that it should bring forth grapes, and it brought forth wild grapes, &c. Ifaiab, cap. v.

OF STYLE. *

What is meant by ftyle?

The peculiar manner in which any one expreffes his thoughts in fpeaking or writing; and is various according to the fenfibility, or intelligence of the perfon, or difference of the fubject.

* The word Style is a figurative expression, from Stilus a sharp pointed instrument with which the ancient used to write on brais, thin boards covered with way the bark of certain trees, on skins, &c. The impression made on these, by different persons, was various; as clear, elegant, forcible deep, &c. This came afterward to be applied to the different manner in which people express their THOUGHTS, and called STYLE.

+ The ancients diffinguished ftyle into the Afiatic an Laconic; or the manner of the Afiatics and the Laced monians.....The Afiatic used many words to express littl matter; the Laconic comprehended much matter in fer words: some examples of the latter, remarkable chief

There is, perhaps, as much diversity in the flyle, or manner, in which different perfons express their fentiments, as there is variety in the features of their faces, or difference in the tones of their voices.

11

11

10 ry

he 12,

de

uld

rild

er.

and telli-

A. 1

I n Stil

cienti 1 wax

reffior

15; 25

rward

peopl

tic an

Lacede

is litt

r in fer

chief

The manner of expression, peculiar to some perfons, is perfpicuous, to others ambiguous; to some redundant, to others concise: some subjects require sublimity, others simplicity; some elegance, others plainness, and the language, being the dress of thoughts, should always correspond to the subject.

But though almost every perfon has a peculiar manner of expression; yet, as correctness of language may be acquired by the observation of rules, so may style be greatly improved by attentively perusing the best authors, till their manner of expression become familiar.

The scholar, having learned all the parts of Grammar, feen their connection with, and dependance upon each other, as members of difcourse, and the rules of syntax, illustrated by a variety of examples, should next be taught to parse and construe sentences, till he can readily K diftinguish

for their brevity are recorded; fuch as, "IF" the answer returned by the Lacedemonians to a long threatening letter from an enemy.---"No" the answer returned by the fame people to Philip, when demanding fomething extravagant of them.---That of the Spartan general to the ambassifador of Samos; "As to what you have faid, "the first part I do not remember, the middle I do not "understand, and the last I do not approve."---Or that of Cefar to the Roman Senate, after he conquered the ting of Pontus; "I came, I faw, I conquered."

diftinguish the parts of speech, and account for their concord and government, as in the following

EXAMPLES.

t

1

2

a 10

to

in th

fig

0 bu th

de lai

my gre

lor

My fighs arife with the beam of the eaft : my tears defcend with the drops of night .the prenoun of the 1. perf. fing. in the My genitive, governed by the noun fighs. a noun in the nominative plural. fighs a neuter verb, of the 3. perf. plu. pref. arife of the indicative, agreeing with its nominative fighs. a preposition. with the the definite article. a noun, in the ablative fingular, governed beam by the preposition with. a preposition. of the the definite article. eaft a noun, in the gen. fing. governed by the preposition of. the pronoun of the 1. perf. fing. gen. gomy verned by the noun tears. a noun in the nom. plural. tears descend a neuter verb, 3. perf. plu. pref. of the indic. agreeing with its nom. tears. a preposition. with the the definite article. drops a noun, in the ablative plu. governed by the preposition with. of a preposition. a noun, in the genitive fing. governed by night the preposition of.

110

-I was a lovely tree in thy fight, Ofcar, but" thy death laid my green head low.

> the pronoun in the 1. perf. fing. in the nominative.

- was a fubiliantive verb, of the first perf. fing. past of the indicative, agreeing with its nominative I.
 - the indefinite article:

lovely an adjective.

5

y

C

ſ.

0-

ed

he

-07

he

by

by

_

my

I

4 tree a noun, in the nom. fing. following the fubitantive verb was.

in a preposition.

- thy the pronoun of the 2. perf. fing. in the genitive, governed by the noun fight.
- fight a noun, in the ablative fing. governed by the preposition in.
- Ofcar a noun, in the vocative, fingular.
- but a disjunctive conjunction.
- thy the pronoun of the 2. perf. fing. in the genitive, governed by the noun death.
- death a noutr in the nominative fing.
- laid a verb of the 3. perf. fing. paft of the indicative, active voice, agreeing with its nominative death.
 - the pronoun of the 1. perf. fing. in the genitive governed by the noun bead.

green an adjective.

bead a noun, in the accufative fing, governed by the active verb laid.

low an adjective.

K 2

Now

Now night had meafured, with her fhadowy cone, Helf way up this vaft, fublunar vault; And, from their ivory poft, the Cherubim,

F

T

And the second	and the second state of th	1.1.1.1
Now	an adverb of time, at this inflant.	Fo
night	a noun in the nominative fingular.
bad mea- fured	a verb, 3. perf. fing. perfect of the in-	iffu at
with	a preposition.	the
her	the pronoun of the 3. perf. fing. gen. governed by the noun cone.	acc bou
(badory)	an adjective-faint, or glocmy.
cone	a noun, in the ablative fing. governed by the preposition with.	Aoo half-way	an adjective.
up	an adverb.	arn
this	a demonfirative pronoun.
Jublunar	an adjective, -terrestrial, earthly.	to
vault	a noun, in the accufative fing. govern- ed by the active verb had measured.	thei
and	a copulative conjunction.	1.25
from .	a prepolition.	nig
their	the pronoun of the 3. perf. plu. gen. governed by the noun pofl.	w in ivory	an adjective, figuratively applied as a quality of the noun post.	wa
poft	a noun in the ablative fing. governed.	par
Pulsine.	by the preposition from.	14.
the	the definite article.	12.85
A second s	n a noun in the nominative plu. celesial fpirits, angels. Forth.
22 3		and and and 11-2

ftoo
To their	night-watches, in warlike parade.
Forth	an adverb,-out of doors, foreward, . abroad.
ifuing	the participle prefent of the verb to
at	a preposition.
the	the definite article.
accustom'a	l'an adjective,-ufual.
bour	a noun in the accufative fing. go- verned by the preposition at.
flood	a neuter verb, 3. perf. plu. past of the indicative, agreeing with its no- minative Cherubim.
armed	an adjective, -furnished with weapons of war.
to	a prepofition.
their	the pronoun of the 3. perf. plu. gen. governed by the compound noun night-watches.
night- watches	a noun in the dative plu. governed by the preposition to.
in	a prepolition.
warlike	an adjective, having the appearance of warriors.
parade	a noun in the ablative fing. governed
	by the preposition in,-shew, mi- litary order.
	K-36 A.

h

1.

d

1

en.

s a ned

find orth

114

A Recapitulation of the Principles of the ENGLISH GRAMMAR.

je

ti

ti

ar

of

fo

th

&

F

th

w

or

pr

the

ed

an fo de

fol

ma

2.1

ma

-

tiv

tiv

He

ed

ma

Into how many parts of fpeech are words divided ?- Nine .- Name them .- 1. The Article. &c .- What is an article ?- What is the use of the article a?-What is the use of the article the ?-What is a noun ?- How many forts of nouns are there !- Two.-What do proper names express ?- What do common names exprefs !- Are not names alfo divided into natural. ortificial and abstratt? *-- How many numbers are there ?- What does the fingular number exprefs -- What does the plural number express? -What is meant by gender ?- How many genders are there ?- Name them .- What is meant by cafe ?- How many cafes are there ?- How are the different cafes known ?--- What is an adjective ?!

* See note page 37.---Names formed from the attributes of other fubftances, are called abftract nouns; and, as fubftances are frequently attended to, on account of fome particular quality or property, that quality or property, independent of the reft, becomes the fubject of inveftigation, or diffcuffion: thus, Let us fuppofe the fubftance, for example, to be a log of Wood; a Carpenter would have occasion to confider its firength, hardnefs, colour: a Geometrician would confine his obfervations to its figure;--length, breadth, thicknefs: a Chymift, regardlefs of all these qualities or properties, would attend to its tafte, fmell and component principles. Each of these artifts, thus, felecting the particular attribute with which he is profeffionally connected, would form that attribute into an abftract nound.

e.

.

e, of

le

of er x-

al,

15

x.

:n-

int

wo ad-

re ?!

tri-

nd.

t of oro-

the.

en-

els,

ions nift,

at-ach

bute

ornu

jective ?- What variations do adjectives admit of? -How is an adjective diffinguished from a noun? -How many degrees of comparison have adjectives -- How are the comparatives and fuperlatives generally formed from the politive ?- How are the comparative and the fuperlative degrees of words of more than one fyllable, generally formed ?-How many kinds of pronouns are there ?- Five.- Name them. - Perfonal, relative, &c.-How many perfonal pronouns are there ?-Five .- What are they ?- I, thou, &c .- Decline the pronouns perfonal .- How do you diftinguishwhen that is a conjunction, a relative pronoun, or a demonstrative? The conjunction that, expreffes the end or motive of an action ; as, I read that I may improve .- It may also be diffinguished from a relative, as it cannot be changed intoany of the relatives, who, whom, which, what, to as to preferve the fenfe; and, when that is a demonstrative pronoun, it will be immediately followed by a fubftantive or adjective .- How many kinds of verbs are there ?- Four.- How is a verb adive known from a verb neuter ?- How many modes are there ?- Five.-What are they? -How do you diffinguish a verb in the indicative mode ?- In the anperative ?- In the conjunctive ?- In the potential ?- In the infinitive ?-How many perfons have verbs ?- Name them.

All the Grammar fhould be frequently refumed by queftions in this manner; answers to which may be given by the fcholar in his own words.

EXERCISES

EXERCISES of falle Syntax, to be read along with, and corrected by, the preceding RULES.

ing

ties

revi

bro

plac

age

He

--] Fro

4

are cou

mon

of t

it w ligh

The

The

don

-1

for

voti

his

-1

foor

faor

ing.

1

RULE I. page 44. Diana anger was Acteon death; and Helen beauty was the deftruction of Troy's.—I found, by my friend accounts, that if it were a man bufinefs only to live, there would not be a more accomplifhed fellow in the whole country.—Socrates wifdom, Ulyffes cunning and Achilles valour are famous in poets works and hiftorians writings.

R. II. p. 46. Without virtue, the more eminenter the qualities and endowments of a rational being are, they become the hideoufer deformities and the more greater curfes.

----He could make the worfer appear The more better reason, to perplex and darken The most maturest counsels.-----

He is more wifer than his teachers.

1. R. III. p. 51. Thus shall we pass, O warriors, in the day of us fall; then let us be renowned while we may, and leave we fame behind us, like the last beam of the fun when he hides him red head in the west.—He faw the difordered steps of him father, and her sighs arose.

2. R. IV. p. 51. A man of fenfe and breeding fpeaks no fafter than the walks, and minds their words as well as her fteps, keeping an even pace in both.—An Orator's tongue thould be agreeable to the ears of their auditors, without either running fafter than he can follow, or draw ing out his words flower than we can have patience to attend.—There is not a more improving exercife to the human mind, than a frequent review of our own privileges and endowments.

3. R. V. p. 52. This is the man which brought the news.—She is one in which I can place the most entire confidence.—Honourable age is not that who stands in length of time.— He that will not work should not eat.

-He that fludies natures laws,

h,

Dn

of

re

he

nets

e. ra-

le.

n

0

be

be-

he dif-

ofe.

ed-

nds.

ven

e a-

out 214

ing

From certain truth his maxims draws.

4. R. VI. p. 52. The fun's light and heat are both neceffary for animals; without this they could not live, without the former they could not move.—And the cloud came between the camp of the Egyptians, and the camp of Ifrael; and it was a cloud and darknefs to those, but it gave light by night to the latter.

-Body and foul must part: The former wings its way to its Almighty fource; The latter drops into the dark and noifome grave.

1. R. VII. p. 73. I loves reading.—We has done.—Thou fhall not do fo.—Pleafures is fhort. —Pains endures long.—Religion were defigned for making mankind happy, and all acts of devotion has that tendency.—The greatest part of his riches were bequeathed to his own relations. —If thou forfakest not thy follies, thou will foon be reduced to mifery.—If it appears to fnow, rain or thunder, I will not go.—There is fome.

fome who takes pleafure in doing mifchief.— What is I to do next?—Is I to go with you?— To be good, are to be happy. affir

the

fpol

clot

Thi

to,

ed. -

ftay

goe

15 V

diffi

are ver

.9

his triff

her

all

nati

bor

goo

rem

gen

1 c

Do

fron

8

7

6

2. R. VIII. p. 74. Pleafure and pain is commonly not far afunder.—Grace and good manners adorns young men.—Time and tide waits for no man.—You and her is both in a fault.—You and me feldom differs.—James and me has waited long on John and you.—Them and me feldom agrees. —There is none more diligent than John and me. —There was a boy and a girl apprehended for ftealing a gold womans thimble and a filver childs whiftle.—There was a gold gentlemans fnuff-box and a filver ladys watch found lately.

3. R. IX. p. 74. It was me who called for you laft night.—It was them who gave us all this trouble.—It was him who bought the goods but it was me who paid for them.—It was her who first introduced the cuftom of inoculating children.

4. R. X. p. 75. I faw he and the yefterday. —He perfuaded the that them was in no danger. —Some people blames we for being to officious. —Upon feeing I, he turned pale.—He ufed we very kindly.—I told John and he the flory.— James fold Thomas and I a horfe.

5. R. XI. p. 75. I who runs.—Thou who works.—The man who walkeft uprightly fhall be bleffed.—All they who runs a race do not gain the prize.

P. 75. I am the perfon who declare and affirm affirms that truth.—Thou is the man who toldeft the news, and who affirmed that thou was prefent.

118

6. R. XII. p. 75. This is the perfon who you fooke of.—He is the very man who you fed and clothed, and who you lent your money to — This is a gentleman, who I am much obliged to, in many respects.

1-

TS .

10.

ld

Ig.

Se

e.

10

ds

X

UC

U-

it

it

y.

r.

IS.

se

10

Il

ot

Id

1

7. R. XIII. p. 76. He deferves be encouraged.—I faw him to go away.—We dares not to flay.—He is quite difeouraged fee how matters goes.—You love hear yourfelf talk.

8. R. XIV. p. 76. The learning languages is very difficult.—Learning of languages is very difficult.—By exercifing of our faculties they are improved.—The indulging finful thoughts very frequently produces wicked actions.

9. R. XV. p. 76. Him dying without iffue, his eftate was divided among his fifters. Them triffing, the reft were diligent. Her mourning her hufband's abfence, he returned and banifhed all her fears.—Swearing does not proceed from a natural propenfity, in any man, him not being born of a fwearing conflictution.

10. R. XVI. p. 77. You may buy as many goods as thou pleafe, but you should not let them remain too long unpaid.—Thou has done many generous actions for which you deferve praife.— I came yesterday and tell him I will not do it.— Dolt thou think that you could find any man free from faults.—I went and fees my friends last week.

week .- Are you him who went past yesterday, and returns this morning.

1. R. XVII. p. 80. James is as rich as her, and fhe is as old as him.—We were flronger than them, but they were more cunninger than us.— She gave him many more gifts than I.—My father has left he more than I.

2. R. XVIII. p. 80. We could not travel so farther that day.—He could not do no more for me though I had been his brother, no, not he indeed.—We did not do nothing this feafon.—He will never be no taller.

R. XIX. p. 83. Jumes received money from I, to give to they.—Peter and me fent for he and fhe.—You fhould not put too much confidence in he, left you be deceived.—We muft not always look on they who are most complaifant to be the trueft friends.—Between you and I, this is but a trifle.

1. R. XX. p. 88. He came to town yesterday and returns about an hour ago.—He worked in the forenoon and walks in the afternoon all the time he was here.—He came and tells me that you and him are gone into the country last week.

2. R. XXI. p. 88. Whether he committed any acts of theft nor violence I cannot fay; but neither he or his brother are well fpoken of.— —Solid peace and contentment confifts neither in beauty or riches.—Neither old or young are exempted from trouble.

IMPROPRIETIES

In

an jer

w

CO

in fac

th ree

an fho

ty refi

any

*

will

the ed h

per tenc

See.

120

IMPROPRIETIES to be CORRECTED, for improvement in SPELLING and WRITING ENGLISH.

Y2

an

fa.

80

for

in-

He

mon

and 20160

: al.

t to this

rday

d in

the

that veek.

itted but

of.-

ither

g are

TIE

§ I. SPELLING.

a fteddy and indifipatted atencion to what wee air engaiged inn is a fhour marke off a fupperior jenious and wil niver feal to diffinguish those whoo hav aquired it.

an innatentive perfon is defecktiv in awl the comon ofices off fivility: hee feams wraped up inn thoghte, yet hee fcerfely ever thinks at awl.

No man is fitt fore eather bifnefs ore converfacion whoo dos note comand his atenfion two. thee preafant objeck, lett it bee what it wil.

Peiple canot allways bee imploied inn fluddy, reeding and converfation; their will bee maney an our, befidse what thees exertifes will take up.

Theere is a refpeck dew two mankind which fhould inclyne even the wifeft off men too folow inocent cuftems.

When thees too air taken away, the pofibillity of gilt and the pofibillity of inocence, what reftraint cann the beleef of thee cread lay upon any man.

L

$ 2. DIVI-

 The following fections, if attentively perufed, will recal to, and fix in the mind, the feveral parts of the Grammar. And, as the attention is eafieft engaged by correcting what is wrong, it would be a very proper method, for improvement, first to write every fentence correctly, and then to make out the construction. See pages 110, 111, 112 and 113.

123

2. DIVISION OF WORDS INTO SYLLABLES.

See pages 20 and 21.

The most wort-hless perf-ons, are gen-er-all-y the most imp-ud-ent and pref-um-ing, in ev-er-y ftat-ion of life.

Ev-er-y perf-on fhould conf-ult the nat-ive bias of his temp-er, bef-ore he chufe the waie of life in which he e-xpe-cts two meat happ-in-efs.

Exp-er-ience keaps a deer fcoul, but fules wil lern in know ot-her, and fcar-cel-y in that: teechars may giv adv ife, but thy canot giv cond-uck.

all-most awl occ-up-at-ions, ho-wev-er inconv-en-ient, ar bett-er for pe-op-le than a life off floth, or id-le-nefs.

Cur-io-fit-y is an uf-ef-ull fpring of nol-edge; it fhould be enc-o-ur-ag-ed in chi-ldren, and indulg-ed in youth.

Phi-lip of Mac-ed-on fade, He was beh-ol-den two the At-hen-i-an or-at-ors for rep-ro-ving hymn, for he would end-eav-our, both buy wordes and act-ions, to maik them lyars.

Buy fee-king what is trul-y exc-ell-ent, and bye co-nte-mpla-ting this, and this onl-ey, the minde inf-enf-ib-ly bec-omes acc-uft-o-med two it, and findes, that in this alon it can a-quie-fs with co-ntent.

$ 3. PUNCTUATION.

See pages 24 and 25.

My fon, if finners entice thee, confent thou; not refraining thy feet from their wicked ways. The por place mea

ĩ

a ſ

af

S

th

de

ve

wi

1

Pu

0

La

1

The femicolon after thou fould be placed after not.

y

V

ie

ie

ſs.

nil

TS

C.

fe

e;

den

ng

les

ind

the e-fs

ou;

TS.

The

This bright beam of our future glory shall never be taken from us but in the world to come. We shall posses as much of the kingdom as we are able; and be clothed with all the light and splendor of the heavenly glory.

Place a colon after taken from us, and dele the point after come.

And the [Eve] bare a fon and called his name Seth, for God faid, the hath appointed me another feed, inflead of Abel, whom Cain flew.

Place a comma after God, and another after fbe, and dele the comma after faid.

And Jefus faid unto him [the penitent thief] verily I fay unto thee this day, thou shalt be with me in Paradife.

Dele the comma after day, and place it after thee.

The ways of heaven are dark and intricate, Puzzled in mazes and perplex'd with errors: Our underftanding traces them in vain, Loft and bewilder'd in the fruitlefs fearch.

Place a colon after intricate, and a comma after errors.

A beauteous lady in this land Has twenty nails on each hand Five and twenty on hands and feet This is true without deceit.

L 2'

$ 4. CAP-

 These examples are fufficient to show the importance of accurate punctuation;---that a point misplaced may reverse, destroy, or render doubtful, themeaning of a fentence, though accurately written.--

124

§ 4. CAPITALS.

eí

ar

m p: bi

11 fa

ya

to

th

fte

ve

of

m

th

cr

to

as,

lon

Tł

PA

See pages 27 and 28.

and the lord Said to satan, whence Comest thou? and satan faid, from Going To and Fro in the earth, And walking Up and Down in it.

and peter answered Unto her, tell me whether ye fold the land for fo much? and the faid, yea, for fo much. then peter faid unto her, how is it that Ye have agreed together to tempt the spirit Of the lord?

i am, Dear madam, your Affectionate friend, and most humble fervant.-

o flay, o pride of greece, ulysses, Stay! o cease Thy course, And listen to our lay.-

methought i heard a voice cry sleep No more; macbeth Doth Murder fleep; The innocent fleep; sleep, that knits Up the ravell'd fleeve of care, the birth Of each day's life.

my name Is religion; i am the offspring of truth and love, and The parent of benevolence, bope And joy.

§ 5. THE ARTICLE.

See page 36.

a idle man is the monfter in a creation, every thing around him is active.

an person, who appropriates toe himself the reputation arising from another's performance, discovers an barrenness of mind, an vainglorious humour, an lazy disposition, and a unjust principle. Drunkenness

Drunkennefs impairs a understandin, waists a estate, banishes a reputation, confumes a body, and renders the man of a brightest parts a common jest of a meanest clown.

Before a invention of printing, the expense of procuring the Bible was at least equal to that of building a ordinary country church.

7

,

t

t

,

2

of

e,

TY

he

22.

us

le.

efs:

A most perfect and a most polished language, like old furniture; still retains fomething of afashion of a time when it was made.

Hear is excellent linen at two fhillings the yard, and fine tee at five fhillings the pound.

§ 6. THE NOUN-NUMBER. See pages 36 and 37.

She lived in great harmony with her hufband, to whom fhe had born fix childs awl of whome fhe furvived.

L 3

Since

Words, beginning with u require the article a, inflead of an, before them; as, a uniform practice---a univerfal rule,---a unity of defign.---Sometimes the meaning of a-phrafe is varied by omitting the article a; as the lady acted with a little modefly---the lady acted with little modefly. Sometimes the meaning is varied by changing the pofition of the article a; as, Lend me half a crown ---lend me two fhillings and fixpence;---lend me a half crown---lend me a half crown piece.

Sometimes the article the is applied to adverbs, andto adjectives of the comparative and fuperiative degrees; as, The more coftly, the better.... The more difficult, the more honourable.... This is the beft, though that be the longeft.... The taller a tree is, the more it is exposed.... The more I converte with him, the more I love his com-

PZ6

Since I pluckt Goofes, plaid truant, and whipped toppes, I knew not, till lately, what it was to be beaten.

I think, in thees daies, one Oneft man is obliged to tell another who air his friends, and who aire his enemys.

Theire retreets are more like deans of robers or wholes of foxs than fortreffes of warriores.

Two thiefs found meens to carry of three calfs and four fheeps; but three mans, with flaffs in their bandes, followed them, and recovered the hole.

Sheeps run not half to timerous from the wolfs Or horfe, or exes from the leopardes

As they fly from their oft fubdewed flaivs.

§ 7. ____ GENDER-CASE.

See pages 39-44.

Every one pitys the duke bis daughter; who, being left his foal beir and executor, had not monie to pay his debtes.

She put herfelf into the garb of a shepherd, and in that difguys, lived many years unknown.

She is a capital aBor, and deferves at leeft awl the praife which has been befloed on her.

She is a excellent poet, and has fometimes paffed for a prophet.—She is heir to a good eftate, and administrator of her uncle's will.

The true waie to advance another man virtue is to follow it, and the beft meens to cry down another man vice is to decline it.

Some men, under a fool cap, exercife a knave wit, their prot tend

1 pini

feiv

the

who 7

the

eye I

but ton

-1

the laft,

and whit

affec

I

ł

ł

wit

ENGLISH GRAMMAR. 127.

wit, making a feaming fimplicity the excufe of theire impudence.

5

1

$

ŝ

r

5

2,

).

d

vl

f-

e, ue vn

ve

it,

Succefs is God usual reward of dilligence; and profperity is commonly the industrious man attendant.

§ 8. THE ADJECTIVE.

See pages 44-47.

No man should bee two positive in his own oppinion, for the most wifest have been often defeived.

A wife man applaudes him whom he thinks the most virtuouses, the reft of the world, him who is the most wealthiest.

The innocenteft pleafures are the most fweeteft, the fensiblest, the most affecting and the lastingest.

Remain heare in the cheer and comfort of our eye, our chiefest cousin, courtier and our son.

He is a happey man who has a true friend, but he is more happier that does not need one.

He has given me a order for ten pairs of cotton mens flockings;—three pares of leather womens floes;—three pears of lafting girls floes; —and a fixpenny childs whiftle.

During the two first days of the wick, he read the five first books of Livy; and, on the three last, he read the five last books of Paradife Lost.

 Such adjectives flould be used, both in speaking and writing, as express the qualities of the nouns to which they refer: and they should be so placed as to affect only the noun to which they belong.

§ 9. THE PRONOUN-PERSONAL.

See pages 47-51.

Some faid it is him, others faid it is like him, but he faid, i am him.

She fings better than him, but he dances better than her: they are fo connected, that neither him nor her is happy when they are feparated.

Between you and i, Sir, the is one of the best and most virtuoufest of her facks.

'Tis thee can make my way ferene, Through lifes tempeftuous buffy fene;

Devoid of guilt, what should i fear, While thee, my gardian pow'r art near?

Mean while, the hainous and defpiteful act Of Satan, don in paradife, and how She, in the Serpent, had defeived Eve, His husband he, to tafte the faital frute, Was none in heaven.

Why did not thee, the head, Command I abfolutely not to go? Hadft thee bean firm in thou diffent, Neither had me tranfgrefs'd nor thee with me.

§ 10. PRONOUNS, RELATIVE-DEMONSTRATIVS.

See pages 49-53.

Of man's first difobedience, and the fruit Of that forbidden tree whose mortal take Brought deth into the world, and all hour woe Sing heavenly mule.

This, which is now, alas ! become a branchleis

at t I the diffi

proj

truns,

trui hea

her

who

cro

dear

give mut

app

defp

N

8 blog

man

that it,

and

1

I

128

trunk, is the very tree whofe branches shaded the head of hapless Mary; whose leaves protected her from the injurys of the weather, and underwhose shade she past many a pencive our.

It is better, faid Antifthenes, to fall among crows than flatterers; for that devours only the dead, thofe the living.

771, et-ler

eft

VS.

De

les

ns.

Avoid late ours and card playing; for the firft gives the face a droufey afpect, and the latter is muther of wrinkles.

Though one should meat with croffes and difappointments he should never abandon himself to despare.

∮ II. THE VERB.

See pages 73, &c.

No trees bears fruit in autumn, but fuch as bloffoms in the fpring.

Slanderers is like flys; them leaps over all a. man hole parts to light on his foars.

It may ferve as a comfort in all calamitys, that him that lofe any thing, and get wifdom by it, art a gainer buy the bargain.

Happy is thy people, O Fingal,—thou fpeaks and thy thousands obeys,—thine enemys trembles at the fight of thy fteal.

Him that enter on the science of Gramer, and the study of a foreign language, enters upon two difficultys at once, each of whom would be leffened buy being taken separately, and in hisproper order.

Him

Him and me is old acquaintances: we had dealings before he became a muficianer, which were more than five years ere he were a widow.

Will * we have the pleafure of your company hear, to morrow-evening?---their is to be no body elfe but your ant the poet, and the young lady, her heir.

§ 12. THE VERB-continued.

See pages 73, &c.

Thou comes forth in lovelinefs;—the flars attends thy blew fleps in the caft.—Has thou thy hall, like Offian?—Dath thou dwell in the fladow of grief?

Pleafant is the words of the fong, and lovely is the tails of other times;---like the calm due of the morning on the hills, when the lakes is fettled and blew in the vales.

He

has gio

OW

the

had roc

this

and

1

Beg

Hi

Do

Til

In

Bu

Lil

Ha

Bu

Yet

Pin

To

]

Shall denotes a ftate in which the perfon whole thoughts are declared, or afked, forefees, hopes, fears, believes, or is told concerning himfelf; hut a ftate which he determines concerning others; thus,---I fball come, we fball come,---only foretels what may happen. But, Thou fball come, he fball come, ye fball come, they fball come, ---implies a promife, a threat, or a command.

He would willingly have retracted all that the has fpoke and wrote against the Christian religion, but it was not now in his power.

d

h

y

V

y,

71-ny

12-

is

he led le

ofe

ing

be-

--

to eat.

1,000

ole ars,

nich.

me, But,

they

and.

He has wrote much for the fatisfaction of his own mind, and that he might be able to retane those thoughts that appeared worth preferving.

She was taken up by fome fishermen, after she had fat three days and three nights upon a baren rock, having neither ate nor drank all the while.

He lays a bed commonly till eight o'clock: but this day he laid till ten; and, after he bad arofe, and fat a few minutes, he went to bed very feek.

§ 13. THE VERB---continued.

See page 73, &c.

Delays is dangerous, took a friend advice, Begin, be bold, and ventures to be wife; Him that defer her work, from day to day, Do on a river brink expecting flay, Till the whole ftreme who ftopt her fhould been Who, as he runs, forever will run on. (gone,

Frinds is like leafs, who on the trees doth grow, In Summer's profp'rous flate much love he fhew; But is thou in adverfity?---then them Like leafs from trees, in autumn, falls away: Happy art him which have a friend indeed, But him more happier are whom none do need. How wretched is the man which crave for more, Yet fuffer want, when it have gold in flore ? Pincheft them guts, and fhame herfelf with rags, To, nleafe its greedy fole with ufelefs bags.

Laft

Laft night me dream, that, birried in the clay, Clofe by a tatter'd beggar fide me laid ; And as fo mein an object flock'd my pride, Thus, like a corpfe of confequence, me cry's, Scoundrel, begone, and henceforth tuch I not; More manners learns and at a diffance rot .---How! [coundrel! with more haughtier tone cries

v

n

tl

fi

0

g

w

fo

W

W

in di

W

te

br

tha

the

of

the fyl

he, (thee; Proud lump of earth, me fcorn'd thy words and Here all is equal, now your cafe are mine, Thefe are my rotting place, and those are thine.

§ 14. THE ADVERB.

See pages 77-82.

I came here above three months ago ;--- I mean to fet out from hence in a few days for London, and from thence to Bath; and, affoon as I get there, I will write to you.

He defires me to cut out [off] my hare otherwoys [otherwife] he fays, I will not recover; and fo [as] foon as I am able, he orders me likeways [likewife] to ride a few miles every day.

If you were once to come here, you would never

 Adverbs promote brevity and energy of expreifion, but they are not the most effential part of language, as, in general, their place might be supplied by other parts of speech. As their propriety and force depend on their polition, they fhould be fo arranged as always to accompany the word they are intended to modify or affect. e. g. " I fpake only three words." ---- Inftead of which we often hear "I only fpake three words."

132

ver think of going there again; but you neve: mind where you are going.

He would not condefcend to flay no longer, though I had given him never fo much money.

§ 15. THE PREPOSITION.

See page 82-86.

$

es

e ; nd

ne.

ean

on,

get

ber-

and ays

never

pret-

lanplied

force

ed as

) mo---In-

rds."

She, having fpent about a year in this retired fituation, was afterwards married on [to] a man of low rank, to [by] whom the was fome months gone with child.

Though he knew I was like to die for [of] want, he could never be reconciled to [with] me for demanding my own.

After having made his efcape over [out at] a window, he went to a remote cottage where he was difcreetly [civilly] treated, and afked to come in to [near] the fire.

When he went for to fee the field of battle, he difplaied his curage in difpaching the feek and wounded; a excelent folger !

He was discharged, under the most severest penalty to enter [from entering] her house, for two full years.

§ 16. THE CONJUNCTION.

See page 87-89.

· Better little as nothing-Better half loaf as no bread-Better late nor never. M

I defired

 " It is chiefly by the connective parts of speech that the train of thought, the course of reasoning, and the whole progrefs of the mind, in contined difcourfe of all kinds, is laid open; and on the right use of these, the perspicuity, that is, the first and greatest beauty of tyle, principally depends." Diverfous of Purior.

I defined him either to pay for the goods, or return them; but he would not do neither the one or the other.

In how many kingdoms of the world has the crufading fword of this mifgided faint-errant fpared neither age or fex, or merit, or condition !

In the midft of the ftreet, and on either [each or every] fide of the river, their was the tree of life.

Can the fig tree, my brethren, bear olive berrys, either [or] a vine figs?

There is but very few, to whom nature has been fo unkind, as they are not capable of fhining in fum fience or other.

> § 17. THE INTERJECTION. See page 189, 190.

Wild sparkling rage inflames the father eyes: Him burft the bands of fear, and madly crys Detefted wretch !----but scarce her speech began When the strange partner seam'd no longer man.

So you have been upon your travels, have you? —You have had your frolic ?—Look ye, young man,—I'll not put myfelf into a paffion : but death and fire, you fcoundrel !—what right have you to plague me in this manner ?

What hands are here! hah! they pluck out mine Will all Neptune's ocean wafn this blood, (eyes,

Clean

 A frequent use of interjections in discourse, unlefs they be uttered to express some fudden emotion or passion, generally denotes a scantiness of ideas, or a detire to speak, without having much to fay. Where speech can be employed they are totally useless, and insufficient for the purposes of communicating thought.

Clean from my hand? no, this my hand will rather The multitudinous fea incarnadine, Making the green ONE red.-

§ 18. CHOICE OF WORDS.

See page 94.

Man is brought into the world a creature of little ftrength, without help, and unable to bear hardships, not furnished with food, or with drefs, and whatever elfe is fit for the means of living or defence.

Better.

S

.

....

n

?

g

t

le S.

in

n-

10

e-

re 11-

Man is born a weak, helpleis, delicate creature, unprovided with food, clothing, and whatever elie is neceffary, for fublistence or defence.

Want of food, and want of drink, with all the feelings that keep them company, or are joined with them, make themfelves manifest by a tongue of-a very ftrong meaning, and forcible moving.

Better.

Hunger and thirft, with all the fenfations connected with them, explain themfelves by a language ftrongly expreffive and irrefiftibly moving.

Sir Roger would frequently have bound Moll White over to the county feffions, had not his chap. lain, with much ado, perfuaded himto the CONTRARY.

§ 19. ARRANGEMENT.

See page 95.

Many clergymen, from a habit of faving time and paper, which they acquired at the Univerfity, write in fo diminutive a manner that it can hardly be read without hefitation, &c. Scuift. Better

M 2

Better

jı

Đ

f

2 d

T

ć

ł

It

Many clergymen, from a habit, which they acquired at the university, of faving, &cc.

The Knight, feeing his habitation reduced to fo fmall a compais, and himfelf in a manner fhut out of his own house, upon the death of his mother, ordered all the apartments to be flung open, and exorcised by his chaplain.

Better.

The knight, feeing his habitation reduced to fo fmall a compass, and himself in a manner shut out of his own house, ordered, upon the death of his mother, all the apartments, &cc.

I had the curiofity, the other day, to follow a crowd of people near Billingfgate, who were conducting a paffionate woman who fold fifh, to a magistrate, in order to explain fome words which were ill-taken by one of her own quality, and profession in the market.

Better.

ate woman, who fold fifh, &c.

$ 20. FIGURATIVE LANGUAGE:

See page 97-108.

A celebrated author, fpeaking of the famous act of parliament againft irregular marriages, fays, "The bill underwent a great number of altera-"tions and amendments, which were not effected without a violent conteft.—At length, how-"ever, it was floated, through both houfes, on "t the tide of a great majority, and fleered into "the fafe harbour of Royal approbation."

136

It is difagreeable to find plain and figurative language jumbled together as in the above paffage,---or a mixture of inconfiftent metaphors as in that following.

d'

0

t

.

1, 11

n

e

N

e

a

h

d

1-18

5,

1=

d

7-

n

0

+

After the many heavy lafbes that have fallen from your pen; you may juilly expect in return all the load that my ink can lay upon your fhoulders. You have quartered all the foul language upon me that could be raked out of Billingfgate, without knowing who I am, or whether I deferve to be cupped and fcarified at this rate. I tell you, once for all, turn your eyes where you please, you shall never smell me out. Do you think that the panics which you for about the parish will ever build a monument to your glory? No, Sir, you may fight thefe battles as long as you will, but, when you come to balance the account, you will find that you have been filbing in troubled waters, and that an ignis fatuys hath bewildered you, and that indeed you have built upon a fandy foundation, and brought your bogs to a fair market.

SPECTATOR, No. 595.

his

0.21. TAUTOLOGY OR REDUNDANCY.

The man that wiftes and defires to become a philosopher, at a cheap and inexpensive rate, he easily, and without any difficulty, gratifies and pleafes his own ambition, and carnell defires, by fubmitting, yielding and giving place to poverty and want, when he does not feel and perceive it, and by boatting and bragging his contempt, difdain and form of riches, wealth and affluence, when he has already, and at prefent, and, now, in his poffeffion, more than he enjoys, and has a true relifh of.

L 3

Corrected thus : '

10

pre

to foi

15 tu

WC

ha

ex

be

re

ĥş

to

fig

th

ph

en

W

by vie

W

na

m fir

fo

be

ti

• The man who withes to become a philosopher at a cheap rate, easily gratifies his ambition by submitting to poverty, when he does not feel it, and by boasting his contempt of riches, when he has already more than he enjoys.

Whatever the advantages or the defects of the English Larguage be, as it is our own language, it deferves a high degree of our fludy and attention, both with regard to the words which we employ, and with regard to their arrangement in fentences.

OF W.RITING.

'Tis to the pen and prefs we mortals owe All we believe, and almost all we know.

To whom we are indebted for the difcovery of this molt useful art does not appear.—The inventor, whoever he was, concealed by the darkness of remote antiquity, is deprived of the honours which would be paid to his memory by all the lovers

* Imitation is fo natural to man, that pictures would probably be the fift effay towards writing. In all ages, and among all nations, fome methods have obtained, of tracing the likenefs of fenfible objects. Those methods would foon be employed for giving fome information to perfons, at a diffance, of what had happened; or, for preferving the memory of facts which they fought to record. Thus, to fignify that one man had killed another, they would draw the figure of one man firetched upon the earth, and of another ftanding by him with a deadly weapon in his hand. Thefe, however, would be extremely imperfect records; as they could neither exhibit connections, nor deferibe qualities, which were not visible.

lovers of knowledge and learning.—The most probable opinion is, that alphabetical characterstook their rife in Egypt, it being the great fource of arts and policy, among the ancients.

a

a

is

e

B

a ir

f:

.

3

3

e

S.

d

s.

S

0

10

-

r, n

y

y

...

Writing must have been posterior to speech, as it is plainly an improvement thereof, devised for mutual communication with one another when absent.

The invention of an alphabet of SYLLABLES, would naturally precede the alphabet of LETTERS. —These behoved to be very numerous, which musthave rendered the arts of READING and WRITING extremely tedious and laborious.

The founds uttered by the voice, in fpeaking, being traced to their most fimple elements, and reduced to vowels and confenants, and one of the figns which we now call LETTERS being affixed to each of them, men were taught to combine these figns or characters, fo as to put in writing, all the different words, or combinations of found, which -

To fupply, in fome measure, these defects, Hieroglyphical characters were afterwards invented. These were emblematical figures or fymbols, denoting, not articulate founds, as letters do, but, ideas or things. Thus eternity was denoted by a circle; life, by a lamp; ingratitude, by a wiper; impudence, by a fly; wifdom, by an ant; victory, by a hawk. Sometimes two or more fymbols were united; as, a ferpent with a hawk's head to denote nature, with God prefiding over it. This fort of writing must also have been a very imperfect manner of expreffing thought, or conveying knowledge.

When we confider how inadequate these methods are for rendering language visible and permanent, we must be firuck with admiration at the usefulness and perfection of the alphabet.

which they employed in fpeech. By this fimple method of reprefenting the articulate founds, the art of writing was brought to the flate in which we now enjoy it.

To trace its progrefs from the earlieft ages to the prefent time,—the materials whereon, and the implements with which, it was performed in different countries, and at different periods, would be a curious, as well as an interesting inquiry.—

The prefent mode of writing on paper made of rags, as well as the art of PRINTING are but modern inventions. Their ulefulnefs, however, in promoting the improvement of arts and fciences, and in diffufing knowledge among mankind, is too obvious to require any illustration.

The importance of reading and writing, to the virtue and happinels of mankind, as well as for the afcertaining, methodizing, preferving and extending of human knowledge, is fo very great, that one is apt to wonder how any perfon fhould be ignorant of either of them; efpecially as they may be acquired with fo little difficulty, and practifed with fo much pleafure.

There are but few people who have not occafion for writing fometime or other, to transact bufinels, narrate incidents, communicate counfels, pay compliments, confult friends, or folicit favours. Young perfons should, therefore, he taught to write clearly and accurately on these subjects, before they enter into bufinels. *

The

W

co

it

all

ft

je

hi

th

C

To

To

TI

of

ve

ple

the

tw

th

ev

ev

íp

ity

thi

Gr

" I cannot forbear mentioning a particular which is

The many errors, even in point of Grammar, which are made by people who are far from being contemptible fcholars, demonstrate that a careful study of the language is previously requisite for all who aim at writing it with propriety.

Accuracy in writing, however, is not to be flumbled upon by fluggards or triflers; but, like jewels of the brighteft luftre, or riches of the higheft value, it is referved to reward and adorn the diligent.—

On the STYLE due to PERSONS of RANK and OFFICE.

Super[cription.

le

le

h

to

he

if-

ld

of

o. in

es,

18

he

he

dat

be ay

cd

ca.

act

is,

fa.

tht

te,

he

5 15

To the ROYAL FAMILY.

To the King's most excel-2 Sir, or, May it please your lent Majefty. Majefty.

To his Royal Highness the Sir, or, May it please your Prince of Wales. Royal Highness.

The fame to any other of the Royal Family, only varying the title and fex.

Super-

Address.

of use in every flation of life, and which, methinks, every mafter fhould teach his scholars, I mean the writing of ENGLISH LETTERS. To this end, instead of perplexing them with Latin epistles, themes and verses, there might be a punctual correspondence established between two boys, who might act in any imaginary part of business, or be allowed sometimes to give range to their own fancies, and communicate to each other whatever trifles they thought fit, provided neither of them ever failed, at the appointed time, to answer his correspondent's letter.

"I believe I may venture to affirm, that the generality of boys would find themfelves more advantaged by this cuftom, when they come to be men, than by all the Greek and Latin their mafters can teach them in feven or eight years." Spectator, No. 356.

Superfcription.

142

Addre (s.

T

T

A

T

C

Co

In

Co

In

Ju

T

T T

T

A

G

T

T

T

T H

Super-

To the NOBILITY.

To his Grace A. Duke of & My Lord Duke. в. Your Grace.

To the Most Noble A. My Lord Marquis. Marquis of G. Your Lordship.

To the right Honourable 2 A. Earl of B.

To the Right Honourable? My Lord.

Lord Vifcount B. Your Lordship. To the Right Honourable?

A. Lord B.

Ladies are addressed according to the rank of their Hufbands.

Sons of Dukes and Marquiffes have the title of Right Honourable.

Younger Sons of Earls, Sons of Viscounts and Barons are ftyled Honourable and Efquire.

All Privy Counfellors are ftyled Right Honourable.

All Perfons bearing the King's Commission are flyled Honourable.

To the PARLIAMENT.

To the Right Honourable) My Lords.

the Lords Spiritual and May it pleafe your Lordthips. affembled.

To the Honourable the Knights, Citizens, and (Gentlemen.

Burgeffes in Parliament (Mayit pleafe your Honours. affembled.

To the Right Honourable

A. B. Efquire, Speaker Sir.

of the Honourable Houle of Commons.

To the CLERGY.

To the most Revered Fa-ther in God, A. Ld. Your Grace.

ENGLISH GRAMMAR. 143.

Address. Super[cription. To the Reverend Father in God, the Lord Bifhop of Your Lordfhip. To the Reverend A. B. 7 Reverend Doctor. D. D. Dean of C. Chan- Reverend Sir. cellor of D. &cc. All the Clergy of inferior denominations are flyled Reverend. The Officers of the King's Household are addressed according to their quality or office. Committioners of the Treasury are flyled Right Honourable, and addreffed according to their rank. Commissioners of the Customs, Excise, Navy, &c. are addrefied officially with the title Honourable. In the Army, all Noblemen are ftyled according to their rank, with the addition of their office. Colonels are always ftyled Honourable. Inferior Officers have the name of their employment fet tirft; as, Major A. B. Capt. C. D. &c. JUDGES and LAWYERS. Judges, if Privy Counfellors, are Right Honourable or Honourable; as, The Right Honourable A. B. Lord Chancellor. The Right Honourable A. B. Lord Chief Juffice. The Right Honourable A. B. Efg. Lord Chief Baron. The Honourable A. B. one of the Justices of, &c. All others in Law, are addreffed according to their rank; every Barrifter having the title of Efquire. Gentlemen in Commission of the Peace have the title of Efquire, as have all Sheriffs, &c. MEN of TRADE and PROFESSION. To Mr. A. B. Merchant, Duke-fireet, London. To Dr. C. D. Bloom/bury-Square, London. To Mr. E. F. Apothecary, Strand, London. To Mr. G. H. Bookfeller, Cheapfide, London. It is proper to mention the defignations and abodes of less eminent traders, as well as their professions. F

eir

ght

Ons

led

ord-

urs.

ber

INIS.

1 144]

INDEX.

Page.	Page.
Of the English language 3	Adverb 77
Grammar, its parts 9	Rule XVII, XVIII. 80
Letters IO	Prepofition 82
Sounds of the Vowels II	Rule XIX. 83
Diphthongs 12	Obfervations on Prepofi-
Confonants 16	tions ib.
Syllables 19	Conjunction 87
Words .20	Rule XX, XXI. 88
Rules for dividing words	Interjection 89
into fyllables ib.	Derivation 90
Quantity and Accent 21	Choice and order of
Sentences 23	Words 94
Emphatis and Cadence ib.	Figurative Language 97
Punctuation 24	Perfonification 98
Capitals 27	Ellipfis 99
Abbreviations 29	Repetition 100
Poetry or Verfification 30	Antithefis 101
Directions for Reading 34	Gradation 102
Parts of Speech 35	Hyperbole 103
Article ib.	Irony 104
Noun 37	Simile 105
Number 38	Metaphor 106
Gender 39	Style 108
Cafe 41	Parfing 110
	Recapitulation 114
Adjective 44	Exercifes of improper
Rule II. 46	English under all the Rules of Syntax 116
Pronoun 47 Rule HI. &c. 51	Improprieties to be corrected, for improve-
Helping Verbs ib.	ment in fpelling and
Irregular Verbs 68	writing English 123
Rule VII. &cc. 73	and the second of the second o

BOBL

